Employment: Retired from Garmin International

Position: Purchasing Manager

Why interested: As a purchasing manager, my job touched just about every business imaginable. The industries I've worked in include automotive, the rail industry, geoen지니어ing, retail, and aviations manufacturing. I've been involved in procuring everything from construction of a major building to office supplies, and have toured facilities from PCB board manufacturing to metal shops to communications centers. Ive established programs to manage travel, communications, transportation, and company-wide use of credit cards. As my career developed, I became the Aviation Purchasing Manager and wrote most of our company's purchasing procedures, and managed audits by the FAA and our aviation customers. My education and initial background was in accounting, primarily practicing in the area of cost management and budget control. Because of my familiarity with so many different areas of business, I believe I could fit with just about any council. In my private life, I've spent over 40 years working for the rights of the disabled. I have a physically and intellectually disabled adult child. Every issue is important to me, from adaptability of parks to sensitivity training with emergency response personnel. In 1976, I was a delegate to the First White House Conference for the Disabled, a first step from which the ADA was born. I was a member of the Governors Council on the Disabled, and the KC Mayors Council on Employment for the Disabled. Since then, I've been involved in various boards and volunteer activities around the KC area.

Other participation: I attended the Citizens Leadership Academy in 2017. I'm active in various activities our fantastic Parks and Recreation offer, including our Community Garden. I also have a strong interest in anything of a historical nature.
