Executive Summary

This Environmental Scan provides a snapshot of the City of Lee's Summit's demographic trends as well as the City's historical budget and staffing levels. Councilmember, citizen, and staff input from in-person meetings, forums, and online engagement were also analyzed to distill commonalities and trends.

This report provides a thorough explanation of the data, trends, and commonalities. However, some key themes emerged. These summary statements capture major themes only and should not be considered an exhaustive list of analyses or indicators provided throughout the report.

Lee's Summit is growing. In 2017, the City's population was estimated at 97,290 residents. This is an increase of 110% since 1990 and 38% since 2000.

Lee's Summit housing occupancy rates exceed the state average. The number of housing units has increased by 37% since 2000, keeping pace with population growth over that same timespan. Housing occupancy rates in the City measure at 94.4% in the 2017 U.S. Census American Community Survey. This compares to an average housing occupancy rate of 86.4% across Missouri.

Lee's Summit residents are well educated. A total of 53% of residents aged 25 years and older have an associate's degree or higher, compared to 36% across Missouri.

Lee's Summit is young. Persons aged 5 to 14 years constitute the largest proportional group in Lee's Summit. One-third of the total population of Lee's Summit is younger than 25 years of age.

Development in Lee's Summit is strong. Since FY2014, the City has added over 8 million square feet of new construction valued at over $914,000,000, including 2,700 new housing units. There is continued demand for new multi-family and single-family units, and the potential development of an additional 4,000 acres of land within the City creates significant opportunities for future growth.

Lee's Summit's government revenues are growing, but so are its expenditures. General Fund revenues have grown by 18% over the last five years, primarily due to increased charges for service, property tax, and sales tax. General Fund expenditures increased by 17% over the same period, primarily due to supplies for resale; other supplies, services, and charges; and interdepartmental charges.

Lee's Summit citizens, stakeholders, and employees are engaged. The City promoted two open community forums, eight community focus groups, an online community engagement tool, and an employee survey to solicit initial input for this strategic planning process. In total, 500 stakeholders came to the table, real or virtual, to provide ideas, thoughts, concerns, and feedback about the current and desired state of the City.

- Participants identified the quality of life in Lee's Summit as a central strength of the community.
- Community members and employees alike believe the City does a good job of providing public safety, community engagement, and parks and recreation services.
- Effectively managing the City's rapid growth was viewed as a challenge by community members and employees. Conversations at the community forums tended to focus on balanced economic development, while online and employee feedback focused more on sustaining services in the face of rapid growth.

- According to community participants, key opportunities the City should take advantage of included job growth, housing development, sidewalk or trail expansions, and corridor beautification. City employees identified improved communication by the City as a different key opportunity.
- Participants expressed a wide variety of views regarding where Lee's Summit should be in 10 years. Community input focused on maintaining a high quality of life and quality public safety services; City employees focused on Lee's Summit being an attractive community that serves as a regional or national model.

These trends are discussed in detail in the following sections.

The following figure illustrates the City's total population by age group according to the 2017 ACS.

The representative distribution of residents across all age groups in Lee's Summit is very similar to the age distribution across Missouri. Likewise, the median age in Missouri is 38.4 years, just as it is in Lee's Summit.

Race and Ethnicity

The City's population largely identifies as White. According to the 2017 ACS, 98% of residents identify as one race, with 85% identifying as White and 8% identifying as Black or African American. No other racial subgroup is significantly represented, as illustrated in the following figure.

Of the City's occupied housing units, 77% are owner-occupied, while 23% are occupied by renters, as can be seen in the following figure. The Lee's Summit owner-occupancy rate is 10% above the average across Missouri, reported at 67% in the 2017 ACS.

Notably, the proportion of renter-occupied housing units in Lee's Summit has remained steady since 2000.

Lee’s Summit is also home to The Missouri Innovation Campus, a joint initiative of the University of Central Missouri, Metropolitan Community College, the Lee’s Summit R-VII School District, regional businesses, and community organizations to help qualifying students earn up to two years of college credits during high school. Those who complete the program may then obtain a bachelor’s degree in two years of postsecondary education.

Lee’s Summit is served by the Lee’s Summit R-VII School District, the Blue Springs R-IV School District, and multiple private schools located within the community. According to the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, these districts each report favorably on several key measures of the Missouri Public School Accountability Report Card as shown in the following table.

Employment

Industry

According to the Lee's Summit Economic Development Council (EDC) 2018 Labor Shed Study, jobs in Lee's Summit grew 3.8% between 2012 to 2017, slightly slower than Missouri's growth of 4.9% over that same period. The EDC reports a Lee's Summit labor force of 71,500, estimated.

The 2017 ACS by the U.S. Census Bureau reports that 24% of the Lee's Summit workforce is employed in the educational services and health care and social assistance industry. The industry with the second-highest rate of employment is professional, scientific, and management, and administrative and waste management services, which employs 14% of residents. Figure 8: Lee’s Summit Average Unemployment Rate, 2011-2018

Commuting

Lee’s Summit residents have an average commute of 24.5 minutes, and 8.3% of City residents work outside the County. As shown in the following table, more than 90% of residents drive to work, either alone or with others.

Development

New Construction

To better understand development patterns in the City, The Novak Consulting Group requested and received information from City staff regarding permits issued for new residential and commercial construction from FY2014 through FY2018. This information specifically included commercial permits for new additions, new commercial construction, new multi-family residential construction, and new shell buildings. Residential permit information included new three- and four-family units, new duplexes, and new single-family residential structures.

On average over the last five fiscal years, the City issued 383 permits for new residential and commercial construction each year. New permit activity has been increasing since FY2014 and peaked in FY2017. Overall, the number of new construction permits issued in FY2018 was 34% higher than the number issued in FY2014. These factors illustrate continued demand for new construction in the community, as illustrated in the following figure.

On a square footage basis, the City has added more than 8 million square feet of new construction since FY2014. Residential construction accounts for 59% of this total, while commercial construction accounts for the remaining 41%, as illustrated in the following figure.

Similarly, the valuation of new construction projects since FY2014 exceeds $914,000,000. Residential construction accounts for 61% of this valuation, while commercial construction accounts for the remaining 39%.

New Housing

Since FY2014, Lee's Summit has added more than 2,700 new housing units, averaging 553 new multi-family, three- and four-family, duplex, and single-family units per year. Of these, demand for single- and multi-family has been most consistent, averaging 341 and 179 new units per year, respectively. In total, new housing units in FY2018 are 49% higher than FY2014, indicating continued growth in housing. The following figure illustrates trends in new housing unit construction since FY2014.

Based on this analysis, it is clear that the City has experienced significant growth and investment in new residential and commercial development over the last several years. These trends are positively correlated with continuing growth in the City’s population and number of households.

In early 2019, Property Reserve Inc. (a subsidiary of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints) announced its intention to release over 4,000 acres of land in Lee’s Summit for future development.¹ The potential development of this land represents a significant and transformative opportunity for the City of Lee’s Summit to continue growing housing, population, business, and industry.

Income

Median household income in the City was $83,601 as of the 2017 ACS, which is 37% higher than the median household income in 2000. However, when inflation is considered, the median income has decreased by 4%. The following figure includes the historical median household income in Lee’s Summit.

Examining earnings by educational attainment shows that persons with less than a high school education earn less than half of what college graduates earn, and persons with graduate degrees or higher report the highest earnings. The following table includes the median earnings by education level.

Table 5: Median Earnings by Education Level, 2017 ACS

Education Level	Median Earnings
Less than high school graduate	$26,146
High school graduate (includes equivalency)	$36,184
Some college or associate's degree	$41,355
Bachelor's degree	$60,568
Graduate or professional degree	$71,910

In Lee’s Summit, a total of 5.5% of individuals and 4.0% of families meet federal poverty criteria. Poverty rates in 2017 are slightly higher than rates in in 2000, as can be seen in the following figure.

Crime

The City of Lee's Summit Police Department, like many law enforcement departments across the country, participates in the FBI's UCR system. This system provides a framework for analyzing crime patterns in a community by organizing incidents according to their kind and severity. UCR Part I crimes include serious crimes that are likely to be reported to police and that occur with regularity across the country. Part I crimes are denoted as Part I violent crimes against persons or Part I property crimes against property. Part I violent crimes include homicide, rape, robbery, and assault. Part I property crimes include burglary, larceny, motor vehicle theft, and arson. Participating departments record offenses reported, those cleared by arrest or exceptional means, and demographic information regarding those arrested for these Part I offenses.

The total number of Part I crimes reported per 1,000 residents in Lee's Summit decreased by 16% in 2017 compared to 2010. Property crimes per 1,000 population decreased by 260 incidents, or 18% overall, while violent crimes per 1,000 population increased by 36 incidents, or 29%. The following figure illustrates UCR crime rates per 1,000 residents for each year from 2010 through 2017.

The following table illustrates UCR crime rates in Lee's Summit by type. The rate of crimes reported in Lee's Summit remains low, with 20.58 Part I crimes per 1,000 residents compared to a rate of 67.65 throughout the state of Missouri in 2017. Some increases in crime types occurred between 2010 and 2017 including cases of Robbery, increasing from 18 to 37 incidents, and Rape, with 11 additional incidents reported. Other crime categories declined by larger numbers, such as the total number of cases of Burglary; there were 111 fewer cases in 2017 than in 2010. The total number of Larceny-Theft reports decreased by 146 incidents reported over this same time period.

City Government Trends

The following categories describe the current and historical trends in the City organization, including its staffing and budget levels.

Staffing

The number of full-time equivalents (FTEs) employed by the City has increased by 12.5 FTEs, or 2%, over the last five years. The following figure shows the actual number of FTEs each year.

Revenues

Excluding transfers, the City of Lee's Summit collected approximately $225,300,000 in revenue across all funds in FY2018. Approximately 87% of this revenue is attributable to three major categories. Taxes (particularly property, sales, and franchise taxes) account for 42% of revenue, while charges for service (such as utility charges) and bond proceeds/premiums account for 23% and 22%, respectively. The following figure illustrates the proportion of actual revenues collected in FY2018 by category, excluding transfers.

In the previous figure, “All other taxes” includes motor vehicle, license, bed, and other taxes. “All other revenues” includes fines and forfeitures, licenses and permits, intergovernmental, material and fuel sales, investment earnings, sale of property, and interdepartmental revenue.

While examining revenues from all funds provides interesting insights into the City’s various revenue streams, this analysis includes revenues captured to support major capital projects, one-time expenditures, and other initiatives outside the scope of routine, day-to-day operations. The City’s General Fund is the primary operating fund for many departments, and it is useful to examine this fund in greater detail to understand budget trends that closely impact everyday operations.

The following table details actual revenues in the City’s General Fund over the last several years by category, excluding transfers. Compared to FY2014, General Fund revenues have increased by approximately $11 million (18%) as a result of increased property and sales tax collections. Nearly three-quarters of FY2018 General Fund revenue is attributable to property, sales, and franchise taxes.

Notably, charges for service have doubled since FY2014. This is primarily attributable to a fee increase for ambulance service as well as increased special detail revenue received by the Police Department for working special events, such as races and athletic games.

Revenue from licenses and permits has also increased as a result of ongoing development activity in the community, particularly regarding permit and inspection fees, zoning fees, and occupational licensing.

Expenditures

Excluding transfers, the City spent approximately $176,000,000 across all funds in FY2018. One-third of these expenditures supported personal services (such as salaries and benefits), while construction expenditures accounted for approximately 19%. Other major expenditure categories on an all-funds basis include other supplies and service charges (14%), supplies for resale (10%), and interest payments (9%).

The following figure illustrates the proportion of actual expenditures in FY2018 by category, excluding transfers.

Notably, the "Supplies for resale" category primarily consists of expenditures related to water and aircraft fuel that the City purchases from other municipalities and suppliers. Ambulance supplies are also included in this category. These materials are then resold to residents and customers as charges for service.

As with revenues, it is useful to evaluate trends in General Fund expenditures because this fund is the City's primary operating fund. The following table provides an overview of actual General Fund expenditures by category from FY2014 to FY2018, excluding transfers.

Table 8: Actual General Fund Expenditures by Category (Excluding Transfers), FY2014-FY2018

Overall, General Fund expenditures have increased by approximately 17% since FY2014, commensurate with similar revenue increases during this same period. Among all expenditure categories, personal services and other supply and service charges have experienced the most growth since FY2014, at $4.9 and $3.8 million, respectively.

It is important to note that the General Fund primarily supports public safety and internal services departments that do not receive significant budget support from other funds. More than half of all General Fund expenditures in FY2018 supported Law Enforcement and Fire/EMS Service, followed by Finance and Public Works, as illustrated in the following figure.

Elected Official and Staff Leadership Input

In February 2019, The Novak Consulting Group conducted individual meetings with the Mayor and each member of the Lee's Summit City Council, as well as a focus group meeting with 18 members of the City's management team. The purpose of these sessions was to gather elected official and staff perspectives on the strategic planning process, as well as to solicit initial input regarding the community and City organization.

When asked to describe the City of Lee's Summit using only a few words, the Mayor, Councilmembers, and staff offered a variety of suggestions. Frequently mentioned words were largely positive in nature, such as "Above Average," "Awesome," "Vibrant," "Safe," and "Friendly." Other commonly-mentioned words were community-focused, including "Family Friendly," "Community," and "Quality Schools." The following word cloud provides a visual representation of these descriptors; words in larger font were mentioned more frequently.

The following sections summarize feedback from individual interviews with elected officials and the City's management team focus group. Notes and observations collected during these meetings were aggregated and summarized to identify major themes and areas of agreement among participants.

Strengths

Elected officials and staff discussed a wide array of strengths regarding the community and the City government organization. There was widespread agreement among participants that City employees are dedicated, professional, responsive, and accessible. Several participants particularly praised the City's Police, Fire, Public Works, Development Center, and Legal Departments as notable high-performing departments. Other words and phrases used to describe the City organization's strengths included efficiency, strong finances, customer service, involved management, public service mindset, and timely delivery of projects and services.

More broadly, participants identified the City Council as a source of strength related to governance and praised the City's commitment to communication and consensus-building. Participants recognized the City as a place where diverse ideals and individuals mingle.

Finally, elected officials and staff identified the City's downtown area and infrastructure investments and maintenance as an important strength of the City.

Weaknesses

When asked about Lee's Summit's weaknesses, participants primarily discussed the impact of the City's relatively rapid growth on the public and staff. Participants described a need to ensure City services accommodate this growth. Participants also expressed a desire to ensure new developments are "built to last," reflect the community's vision for development, and can support additional regional business attraction.

Other weaknesses identified by elected officials and staff included compensation and benefits, particularly for Public Safety staff, and the need for the City to challenge the status quo and innovate.

Opportunities

Opportunity areas identified by elected officials and staff primarily focused on development and growth. Participants referenced downtown development and communicated a desire to attract larger businesses and industrial companies to locate in the City. In particular, constructing a farmers market/pavilion and enhancing airport services were discussed as specific development opportunities for the community. Other development opportunities included the potential to develop approximately 4,200 acres of land in the community currently owned by Property Reserve, Inc (PRI).

Capital improvements and infrastructure were also discussed, including the need to complete voter-approved projects, advance the City's current capital improvement plan, construct better-defined gateways into the City, and augment options for transportation and transit (such as the Rock Island Railroad shared use corridor).

Other opportunities identified by participants included the need to capitalize on Lee's Summit's history of community involvement, enhance the City's sustainability efforts, develop partnerships with neighboring municipalities, determine the City's niche in the Kansas City metro, enhance educational opportunities for residents, and modernize community engagement and communications practices.

Challenges

Community

When asked about the top issues facing Lee's Summit as a community, participants primarily discussed growth and development-related issues, including a lack of destination-type attractions, restaurants, and stores (particularly in the downtown area), as well as how to approach potential new development related to PRI. The need to develop and grow the City's commercial tax base was also identified as a development-related challenge, as was the need to balance development amenities to avoid favoring particular economic sectors. Other concerns included a lack of affordable housing and perceived tensions regarding multifamily housing in some parts of the community, as well as maintaining a good relationship with the City's Housing Authority.

Infrastructure in the community also presents challenges. Participants indicated that the City needs to develop and maintain its infrastructure assets, and there are perceptions that the community may be growing beyond what current infrastructure can support.

Other community challenges discussed by participants included perceptions of racial inequality (particularly in schools), school district boundaries that overlap multiple Council districts, tensions between long-time and newer residents, aging population, community concerns about public safety, the role of money in politics, improving the ability for more residents to run for elected office, and enhancing the City's sense of identity.

City Organization

Participants also identified challenges specifically concerning the City organization. Frequently mentioned topics included the need for the City to maintain financial sustainability and transparency, maintain revenues and control spending, retain sufficient reserves, and adequately finance staff compensation.

Infrastructure and development challenges also impact the City organization, including the need for sewer and water extensions and the need to maintain roadways, utilize existing assets (such as the amphitheater), redevelop properties, continue enhancements to the downtown area, and attract employers and high-quality jobs.

Public safety was discussed, specifically regarding the need to ensure fire station coverage is adequate and to attract qualified applicants to fill public safety jobs.

Other challenges described by elected officials and staff involve the City organization's culture and management. Participants described a need to attract new vibrancy to the City organization, improve support for the City's leadership team, and improve trust between City administration and line staff (particularly union staff).

Vision for the Future

Elected officials and staff were asked what they would like City to be known for ten years in the future. Most responses described attributes of a future community that elected officials and staff found desirable, including traits such as authenticity, integrity, sincerity, a balanced and inclusive community, friendly, nostalgic, a good place to live, good neighbors and neighborhoods, and increased diversity.

Participants also described a community where growth continues to be fostered, particularly in education, healthcare, and entertainment, and that attracts more residents of all ages. Other visionary attributes included a community that continues to plan for infrastructure and share the costs of infrastructure projects with other jurisdictions, an emphasis on fiscal responsibility, the preservation of the community's home values, and retaining what the community currently values.

Community Input

To gather as much input and feedback as possible toward creating a complete picture of the current and desired future state of the community, The Novak Consulting Group held two community summits and eight focus groups in February 2019. Additionally, an online engagement website hosted by Bang the Table® provided residents who were unable to attend community summits with a means of engaging in the strategic planning process.

Each of these opportunities was promoted by City staff through multiple outreach channels targeting both general and specific audiences, such as those who have previously volunteered or participated in other City events.

Sixty-six participants attended the first community summit held on February 27, 2019; 80 participants attended the second community summit held February 28, 2019. A total of 81 participants attended the eight focus group sessions. Additionally, 117 individuals registered to participate in the online engagement site.

In total, these efforts reached 344 participants who provided their ideas, perceptions, and feedback. Key themes from this outreach are discussed in the following sections.

Community Summits and Focus Groups

The following is a summary of the input received from participants of the community summits and focus group sessions. Raw responses are available in Attachments A and B of this report.

Online Engagement

Lee’s Summit Ignite, the online engagement website, was established to allow residents and stakeholders a forum to provide feedback and engage with others even if they were unable to attend an in-person community session. Online feedback was gathered from February 14 through March 10, 2019. A total of 117 individuals registered to participate in the online engagement site.

The engagement site provided opportunities for respondents to provide feedback and insights regarding similar topics discussed at the community summits and focus groups. This was accomplished through two engagement tools: community idea boards and an online forum. The community idea boards and online forums each offered respondents the opportunity to “vote” in support of an idea or comment previously made by another user.

Each of the following sections provides a summary analysis of feedback received through the website. Votes in support of ideas or comments are included in the analysis, as well as comments that offered an alternative approach or idea. Raw responses to the open-ended questions are provided as Attachment C.

City Employee Input

City employees offer a unique and important perspective for informing the current state of the City. To gain the benefit of this perspective, The Novak Consulting Group administered an online employee survey in collaboration with City leadership. City staff promoted the survey and distributed the invitation to participate to 1,049 employee email addresses. The survey was administered using Survey Monkey®, a web-based survey tool, which was open from February 21, 2019 through March 8, 2019. The survey received 156 responses representing a response rate of 15%.

Results of the survey are summarized in the following sections. A copy of the survey instrument and raw responses are included as Attachments D and E.

Other frequently mentioned descriptors included being part of a larger team, community, or cause. The fourth most-mentioned theme described employees as professional. Other frequently mentioned categories describe staff as citizens, purpose-driven, diverse, caring, representative of the community, and hardworking.

Employees were next asked what they do in the organization or community. Employees offered 124 responses to this question, with the most frequently provided responses shown below.

Table 27: Employee Survey Question 2: What do we do?

Response Category	Number of Responses
Provide Excellent Service	38
Provide Value to Residents	29
Improve the Community	18
Keep the Community Safe	13

Thirty-eight employees referenced the excellent service provided by staff, while 29 responses described the value City services provide to residents and the organization. Other frequently mentioned responses described the City staff's role in improving the community on a regular basis and keeping the community safe. Other responses described the staff's role in maintaining City infrastructure, engaging with citizens and partners, providing leadership to those they serve, and generally doing good work.

The final survey question specific to the mission of the organization asked, "How do we do it?" Employees provided 122 responses. The most common responses by category are reflected in the following table.

Table 28: Employee Survey Question 3: How do we do it?

Response Category	Number of Responses
By Engaging the Citizen/Customer/Community	15
Through a High Level of Service	11
Efficiently	11
With Commitment	11

Responses to this question were more varied than the prior two survey questions. Fifteen responses described engaging customers, citizens, and the community. Employees also indicated service excellence, efficiency, and commitment were common factors in how they work. Other less frequently mentioned descriptions included being team-oriented, maintaining ethics, being professional, working with pride, being hardworking, and showing compassion.

Values

Organizational values define the cultural norms of team members and, by extension, often influence those norms for customers, as well. Values may be written or unwritten, and their reinforcement may come through formal channels such as awards or discipline, or they may be reinforced through casual social cues. Regardless of their origination or how they come to be adopted, all organizations have values. Being mindful of organizational values and intentional about aligning those to broader organizational goals can change a culture and make the difference between success or mediocrity.

Employees were asked to consider the values that are at play when City employees operate at their best. The survey presented respondents with a list of values and asked them to select up to five that characterize the City at its best. Respondents were also able to submit their own custom descriptors. In total, 122 respondents answered this question. The top five values selected by employees are shown in the table below with the number of responses received for each value:

Table 29: Employee Survey Question 4: When City employees operate at their best, what values do you see?

Value	Number of Responses
Professional	68
Accountable	67
Customer Service	64
Commitment	58
Integrity	51

Six respondents completed an open text field to suggest a value not included in the selection, with the most common suggestion being “All of the above.” Additional suggestions from this open text field included the value of being business focused and public servant oriented.

Future of the Community

Just like community members and City leaders, employees were asked to describe what they would like Lee’s Summit to be known for in ten years. A total of 122 employees responded to this question. The most common responses to this question are listed below.

Table 30: Employee Survey Question 5: What do you hope Lee’s Summit will be known for in 10 years?

Response Category	Number of Responses
Attractive Community	24
Best City in Region/State/Country	20
Progressive Community	17
Safe Community	13
Supportive Community	12

Being an attractive community was the most often provided response category, with 24 mentions. Additionally, employees want Lee’s Summit to be regarded as the best City in the region, state, or country. Additional themes shared in comments included being known for bringing in new businesses with good jobs, great schools, and for being a well-balanced, sustainable community.

Strengths

City employees were invited to provide input regarding the strengths, challenges, and opportunities facing the organization and community. These questions were posed separately, first asking employees to consider what they believe the City does particularly well. The most common replies from the 114 employee responses to this question are included below.

Table 31: Employee Survey Question 6: What do you believe the City does particularly well?

Response Category	Number of Responses
Public Safety	14
Citizen Engagement	13
Customer Service	13
Infrastructure Maintenance	10

Employees most frequently rated public safety services as a strength. Employees also agreed that their ability to engage with citizens was a key strength, equal to how frequently good customer service was mentioned as a strength of City employees. Respondents also believe that infrastructure maintenance including roadways, the water system, and curbs are an organizational strength. Other strengths mentioned by employees included City events, marketing about City accomplishments, responsiveness to those who reach out for assistance, and great parks.

Challenges

Employees were asked to identify significant challenges they see for the City. The most common replies from the 120 comments submitted are summarized by category in the following table:

Table 32: Employee Survey Question 7: What do you believe is the most significant challenge facing the City?

Response Category	Number of Responses
Financial Constraints	18
Rapid Growth	16
Leadership	10
Sustainability of Services	10

Eighteen comments related to financial constraints, particularly concerning how financial resources are distributed within the organization to balance new growth with normal daily service delivery. Rapid growth was mentioned as a challenge in 16 comments by employees. Those comments that offered feedback more specific than “rapid” or “quick growth” mention subjects such as a lack of schools, the need to sensibly plan undeveloped land, and the need to balance commercial and residential development. Employees expressed a variety of perceptions about leadership including dissatisfaction with current City management, with a few mentions of the current approach to fiscal administration. Finally, the most often mentioned challenge facing the City was the future ability of employees to provide current service and maintenance functions with existing resources.

Additional themes mentioned in response to this question included competitive employee compensation, the availability of affordable housing, the cost of living in Lee’s Summit, hiring and retaining high-quality talent, and the need to recruit new businesses to Lee’s Summit without providing too many financial incentives.

Opportunities

Employees were asked what they thought the City could do better. The 118 responses to this open-ended question varied widely. The most common responses are categorized in the following table.

Table 33: Employee Survey Question 8: State one thing the City could do to better serve the community.

Response Category	Number of Responses
Improve Communication	12
Improve Internal Relationships/Leadership	11
Change Strategic Direction	7
Improve Citizen Engagement Efforts	6

Improving communication efforts across the organization was most often cited, with 12 comments. Second to improving communication, employees indicated a need for City leadership to foster improved relationships with employees. Comments from employees suggesting a change of strategic direction were evenly split between those who felt the City should be more ambitious and provide more resources to be more aggressive toward achieving current strategic goals and those who think the strategic direction is off track and should “get back to the basics.” Finally, employees suggested the City should do more to seek citizen or community feedback then act based on what is heard in return.

Other topics mentioned included a need for better road maintenance, investing in employees through training and retention efforts, poor employee pay, and developing a sense of unity across all employees regardless of department or team.

Future of City Government

Employees were asked to share two to three distinctive strengths or attributes for which they would like the City organization to be known for in 5 to 10 years. The 113 comments provided by responding employees are summarized below.

Table 34: Employee Survey Question 9: What are 2-3 distinctive strengths or attributes for which you would like the City Government to be known 5-10 years in the future?

Response Category	Number of Responses
Progressive Community	21
Ethical	21
Professional Staff	12
Strategic Leaders	12

Two primary themes emerged, each of which included 21 distinct responses. These themes included the desires for Lee’s Summit to be a progressive leader in service delivery and community design, and for the City organization to demonstrate professional ethics including fairness, integrity, humility, kindness, and honesty. Following these two categories, employees hope in five to ten years that the City organization will be regarded as competent and professional and, equally, that the City will be seen as visionary, with good planning and foresight to develop a desirable future for the community. Other less frequently mentioned descriptions included strong public safety services, strong fiscal performance, responsiveness to community needs, and service excellence.

Other

The final question of the employee survey asked employees whether they had any additional thoughts or comments about the organization that they would like to share to help this strategic planning project. A total of 73 employees offered responses, with the most frequently offered responses summarized below.

Table 35: Employee Survey Question 10: Are there any other thoughts or comments about the organization that you would like to share that would be helpful to this Strategic Plan project?

Response Category	Number of Responses
No or None	8
Provide Results	5
Service Demand Planning	4
Leadership	4

Employees responded to this question most often by saying they did not have additional feedback to offer. Five respondents asked for the results of the survey effort to be communicated with staff, such as through the development of measurable goals. Respondents also mentioned the need to plan for how to respond to the increasing services demands that come from growth, with specific mention of needing additional staff and equipment. Finally, four employee responses expressed mistrust in executive or departmental leadership, with three comments expressing concerns about how leadership relates to employees.

Other responses suggested bringing in more entertainment options to the City, conveyed appreciation that employees were asked to participate in this process, advocated for developing a more employee-focused culture in the organization, and addressing employee concerns regarding compensation.

Lee's Summit City Government – Weaknesses

- 5 to 6 years voted to get a downtown entertainment space/farmers market; nothing has happened although voters voted for the plan, it lapsed into limbo
- Burden to fix infrastructure problems beyond boundaries of specific developments is placed on developers rather than being addressed by the City
- City hasn't jumped up to embrace hosting large events like state soccer tournaments – would be nice to see a little more risk taking/willingness to be open to new ideas
- Common area backs up to woods; city sent letter about razing trees for infrastructure needs; conducted a forum and bringing in engineers to work with residents (ended up being positive)
- Conflicting feedback from departments/staff regarding the development process, with guidelines on business retention and incentives only recently developed
- Council engagement with Boards and Commissions could be better
- Development is out of balance; not enough commercial development to support the tax base and infrastructure
- Disrespectful City Council in the past
- Doesn't have a health department, though this may not be an area for expansion as Independence recently closed theirs
- Don't have a true unbiased newspaper
- Embrace opportunities that come; vision
- Issue of inclusion (ADA) – lack of opportunities, access
- Lack of collaboration with other entities on addressing infrastructure issues – roads, sewer, water to stay ahead of development (cities, county, state, etc.); for example, in Kansas communities are working together all the time
- Lack of communication at times, particularly to promote City successes
- Lack of communication on development; information doesn't come from the City
- Lack of housing for disabled or elderly

- Miss a thorough hometown paper
- Need to take care of big issues that shape community values and who we are as a community
- Need to use progressive tools such as social media or text alerts to reach people
- Poor job of replacing pavement, sidewalks, curbs, streets, etc. (road maintenance) – tend to be reactive not proactive
- Potholes
- Potholes
- Public transportation or lack of
- Public transportation, both within the City and for inter-city transportation
- Road maintenance and snow removal in subdivisions
- Salary issues creating tension between staff and leadership that has been felt in the community
- Snow removal
- Snow removal
- Snow removal in cul-de-sacs, side streets
- Snow removal in neighborhoods
- Special use permit process needs to be reviewed or updated
- State roads with different jurisdictions
- Transportation issues – 3rd and 50 Highway interchange
- Tried twice to contact the city online and never received a response
- Water department: water main break across the street underground that flowed under home and caused damage; difficult to seek assistance

Lee's Summit Community – Opportunities

- 50 Highway corridor beautification
- Address changing shopping patterns
- Advocacy and legislation that focus on economic development at the state level; take advantage of it
- Affordable and quality housing; diversity of housing
- Aging demographics in need of mixed housing options that will allow them to age in place
- Airport – continuing developing and leveraging
- Attract corporations that will continue to narrow the gap between outbound workforce commuters and inbound workforce commuters
- Attract larger corporations to draw more tax dollars
- Attracting talent to the community
- Bring more outside events here, we've missed those opportunities
- Collaboration with school system, business community, etc.
- Continue to examine price point and value of services
- Determine what to do with the 4,000 acres coming on board for development
- Development in different parts of the community
- Development of housing in downtown
- Development of PRI site (Property Reserve/Mormon church)
- Development takes a long time; speed up development process
- Diversified housing stock
- Downtown Lee's Summit is incredible so would love to see similar effort applied to the 291 Corridor

- Embracing the challenge of affordable housing and diversity, while not losing what is important to us and being welcoming to all people
- Ensure workforce is career ready through education opportunities
- Growth at the airport and the ability to handle regional jets
- Higher end retail as residents still must go to Johnson County to do things, though the Paragon project will elevate us
- Is there opportunity to develop or create incentive programs for housing to encourage development with a chance to create a competitive market
- Look at lifecycles/stages of life and see how welcoming the community is and if there are opportunities or gaps... (how do you become a community of choice at different stages of life)
- Market gems in the community – parks, Knox Pavilion, etc.
- Market our community outside of the Midwest region to attract businesses; developers and aggressively target different industries with high paying jobs
- Mixed use development
- Multi-family housing in the downtown
- Must move away from the thought that if a house is not a $350,000 house it is undesirable
- Must work on drawing more tourism activity to Lee's Summit to demonstrate a need for more development like a Convention Center, hotels, etc.
- Need more spec office space
- Need to be willing to look at other housing options like townhomes, condos, or rentals
- Need to define what affordable or workforce housing really is
- Need to have a conversation about diversity in terms of socioeconomic, race, disabilities, etc.
- Need to have thoughtful planning that develops the community as a City rather than a subdivision and considers how future development will impact businesses and employees who have to be able to live here and purchase goods and services
- Need to think bigger about future development on church site, "City of Lakes", parks, other opportunities
- Not a lot of vertical office space but have the infrastructure to support that kind of development
- Opportunity for connectivity between open spaces, green space, trails, and paths
- Paragon Star development and the related opportunity to draw younger residents to live, work, and play there
- Protect school system
- Provide more assistance and opportunities for certain demographics in the community (like teens)
- Provide tax incentives for the things we really need, like high paying jobs, versus retail to attract a population that will support a need for more housing
- Recognition of how city services will be funded in light of "Amazon effect" that draw retail sales taxes out of the City
- Re-evaluate what we are giving away (tax incentives) and is it the best value or use of funds
- Relationship with the school district
- Roads, sidewalk, parking – infrastructure in the downtown
- Rock Island Trail to reach outdoor lifestyle enthusiasts and the opportunity to embrace that further
- School board and City Council should collaborate more (i.e. one of the largest issues debated with development is whether the school system can handle growth...the right people aren't talking)
- School District – can't have Cadillac school system without taxes

- Seize on opportunity of attracting young families with the right amenities and housing stock where young families can walk or Uber to restaurants, work, visit friends, etc.
- Small sparks that will explode have been on the cusp for quite a while, but what's holding the community back? Need to take some risks. Development of the Mormon church land may be the great opportunity to make something special
- Stormwater
- Target marketing/tourism/events to areas outside the Lee's Summit region to improve occupancy rates to encourage more hotels or a convention center in the future
- Three major developments including Chipman, Third and Longview, and Paragon Star, are poised to bring retail, athletic opportunities, increased parking and traffic, schools demand, housing, activities, and tax base
- To improve and look at new ways of communicating with the public and educating them about the complexities of issues and costs
- Transportation connector would be a benefit
- Use of reserve police units to maintain public safety response times
- Variety of housing options to attract young families
- Vision of community of wellness which includes behavioral, mental, spiritual, financial, and physical health assistance
- Walkability
- What happens with all these senior living facilities if we aren't attracting new people in the community?
- Workforce makeup is very interesting; need to foster an environment of collaboration and innovation; City needs to brand and pivot itself towards this new generation workforce
- Would love to see more business development but need more appropriate real estate inventory to support them
- Zoning code that provides land for schools when new developments come into the community

Lee's Summit Community – Challenges

- A segment of the population here does not have access to healthcare
- Affordability
- Affordability and cost of living which make it difficult to recruit talent for local businesses
- Affordable housing
- Affordable housing
- Affordable housing – many people who work here in the community can't afford to live here
- Aging subdivisions that are being rented out at inflated rental rates, suppressing entry-level homebuyers' prospects
- Barriers to development such as land cost, insufficient labor force which requires reliance on recruitment from across the region, perception of being a bedroom community and not a business community
- Can't have growth just for growth but instead need to attract the right type of businesses
- Cerner complex brought high income earners who are inflating housing prices
- Changing evolution of how to communicate with the public and through different mediums now that the community is without a local newspaper
- Clarity on communication
- Code enforcement, particularly for rental property in single family home neighborhoods
- Communications that reach all the different communities

- Community is in transition from small town to big city so needs to manage growth in schools, housing, and in all aspects
- Community resistance to or perception of affordable housing
- Currently don't have the tourism draw for new development
- Demographics are changing (age)
- Difficult for builders and developers to build profitably with increased costs of building materials, so need to reshape perceptions of high-density housing
- Disconnect between different parts of the community
- Diversity issues need to be addressed and may require support of the Human Relations Commission as the City will need to address this challenge
- Diversity of community/representation on governing bodies
- Dysfunction in school district
- Education controversy that should not be an issue, frustrating
- Embrace diversity
- Empower others to get involved
- Ensure that the public recognizes the City's strengths and understands what they are paying for (i.e. parks systems, public safety, etc.) – there must be an understanding of value (good example is the Lee's Summit podcast that outlined where tax dollars go)
- Ensure that we are encouraging new development and have planning processes that don't hinder development
- Excluding a whole demographic of individuals from living here
- First responders must be compensated well
- Growth and growing pains such as schools, changing school boundary lines, etc.
- Growth: City doesn't have a lot of land that is developable because it is owned by the church
- High rate of adult suicide in specific zip code
- Housing around downtown
- Housing for seniors other than John Knox
- How the City has given away tax increment financing (incentives)
- How we are being viewed with skepticism because of recent attention due to articles related to inclusion/diversity
- Inability to build higher than two- to three-story developments in downtown despite demand
- Know we need housing but do not want to lose green space
- Lack a large convention center or hotel to host large events
- Lack of affordable, multi-family housing including in desirable areas such as downtown, with impacts to low income residents and young families
- Lack of consolidated recycling locations
- Lack of housing currently on the market
- Lack of housing in the downtown
- Lack of housing options (diversity of housing products)
- Lack of housing options at varied price points
- Lack of large commercial manufacturing or distribution businesses or class A office space
- Lack of vocational-tech schools/training
- Landfill is closed
- Lifestyle and amenities that address the needs of the spectrum of the population
- Losing police officers to other departments who are offering better compensation, and how that reflects on the community

- Loss of sense of community if people cannot live in the same community in which they work
- Many individuals only drive through the highway, which is not the most beautiful
- Marketing and citizen education – how do we continue to support existing gems?
- Need improved walkability in neighborhoods or destination centers such as downtown
- Need more corporate tax base to balance residential tax burden
- Need more diversity that is now discouraged for a lack of affordable housing
- Need to retain “can do” attitude and flexibility as City grows
- Net loss of daily work commuters away from Lee’s Summit
- New housing development will impact school districts
- Not enough professional jobs at higher wages (at or above $50,000)
- OATS is insufficient to current demands so may need to consider fixed bus routes alternative option to help connect people
- Perception of equity imbalance in road networks and value of arterial, feeder, and collector streets
- Plan for the future development of land that is left
- Pricing out young people and seniors; yet the employment base isn’t here to afford housing
- Residents are not very accepting of higher density developments
- Retaining public safety employees due to compensation issues
- School district changes and challenges yielding unrest in district organization, operations, and teacher satisfaction
- School system
- School system and capacity
- School system changes may cause people to leave
- Senior housing
- Serving the needs of all residents regardless of socioeconomic status
- Several different neighborhoods/communities within the City need to help them all know they are part of a larger community
- Shifting demographics between elderly population and population of young people, both of which need affordable housing with unique considerations
- Struggle attracting talent from the local community
- Sustaining Lee’s Summit schools and its diversity of programs or athletic opportunities that are offered
- There is a whole group of people who can’t afford to live here and “affordable housing” is perceived poorly, so try to use working like “attainable housing”
- There is not workforce housing available now, with most homes on the market right now priced above $300,000
- Too much retail development with rise of online retail
- Transportation
- Transportation
- Transportation barriers due to lack of connectivity between City and neighboring towns or cities
- Walkability – mass transit
- Warehouses and spec buildings for commercial businesses are not available here
- We often talk about homes in terms of development but not retail or businesses
- Workforce diversity

Community Idea Boards

Tell us what you love about Lee's Summit.

- A great sense of real history. Ambiance of downtown, Longview, etc, the Museum, the Historical Cemetery, etc.
- Family Friendly
- Food, Fun, and Friends
- Great Outdoor Community-very active community, but food choices don't match healthy living.
- Great schools; quaint downtown; lots of parks; ice skating; water park; 2 malls; surrounded by lakes for fishing; lake for swimming;
- Lee's Summit is loyal to its small businesses and a great place to be an entrepreneur!
- more creative opportunities (classes, concerts, entertainment). We have lots of park/trails. But not enough creative/entertainment.
- More public restrooms downtown LS
- Need more sand volleyball courts. Love the downtown area. Need more high paying jobs and lower property taxes.
- Not too big. Not too small. Green spaces. And lots choices for living. Homes, condo, apartments. Large and small.
- Quaint and friendly downtown. Most properties well maintained. Small, locally-owned businesses. Best community orchestra in the region.
- We have City employees who care, and are actively-involved with people who live here. They take responsibility, ask questions, and respond!
- We love Downtown LS. There are so many great, local places to eat and drink!

What would you like to see improved? What opportunities can you think of?

- Idea: We need to preserve what is left of our historic buildings in the downtown and neighborhoods.
 - Comment: Keep variety in downtown architecture. All new stuff looks the same. Don't want it to end up looking like another strip mall or manufactured "lifestyle" center.
- Idea: more places for the kids to go sledding. We were kicked out of the Jackson County park for sledding. Other than sled hill were do we go?
 - Description: sledding
 - Comment: Need to have a discussion with Jackson County Park people about that!
- Idea: More public restrooms dtls
 - Description: DTLS is always hosting amazing events! It would be great to add more public restrooms or ope City Hall restrooms. I image all the small businesses would agree.
- Idea: People tell me all the time that they "love" LS. But no one can tell me "why"? We need to know more about our history/what connects us.
 - Comment: Love: community engagement, family friendly, green spaces. Residents spend the time and effort to make the community better, put down roots here, and care about the city. Don't get that kind of 'ownership' and engagement in the towns surrounding us to the north and west.

- Idea: Maybe, have a resident appreciation day.
 - Comment: Yes! Maybe offer some free limb pick up after storms etc.
- Idea: Downtown Farmers Market Pavilion
 - Description: A new home for the farmers market that would allow for a year round market and other community events.
 - Comment: Good idea
- Idea: Beautify rights-of-way. Build Farmers Market Pavilion across from City Hall. Engage citizens living in the northern part of the city.
- Idea: My husband and I wish LS had more paved bicycle/walking trails like the ones in Overland Park.
 - Comment: Asphalt...agree. And a horse path somewhere.
 - Comment: Designed with security in mind please.
 - Comment: I agree. We also need on street bike lanes for bicycle transportation and access to parks.
 - Comment: Yes, I wish there were more trails for running and walking around town.
- Idea: Promote Physical Activity
 - Description: Promote physical activity and keep kids safe by maintaining sidewalks so they don't have to walk in the streets or through people's lawns. We love jogging when the weather is nice and sunny. Let's keep Lee's Summit healthy!
- Idea: Another parking garage on the opposite corner of downtown. Build up that area too.
 - Comment: We need more development downtown, but we don't need more parking. It is a waste of space and will only cause more traffic, noise pollution, and air pollution. Instead, we should create a reliably transit system and a bike lane network.
- Idea: Invest in infrastructure more. Be proactive in adding/ fixing sidewalks to older areas. Snow/ice removal needs improvement. Road maintenance
- Idea: Work with kcpl or whomever to improve electric supply. Some areas go out way too frequently and not always due to weather.
- Idea: We need a north/south thru st on SW side between Pryor and Sampson from Longview to 150. Sampson is part of a subdivision then shared w KC.
 - Comment: Agree!
- Idea: Build more $200,000-250,000 homes in a large cool planned community! Excited to see our city grow and offering more Opportunities! KC!
- Idea: More Evergreen trees to make our city prettier around 50 highway! Driving down 50 you cannot tell how pretty our city is.
 - Comment: I agree, more Evergreens!
 - Comment: Love the idea. Plus those trees help deal with emissions.
- Idea: Would love to see more eclectic restaurants instead of chains. Create a different experience than the other cities close by.
 - Comment: I agree~The city may not have control over what businesses chose to open locations here, but if citizens show interest, the restaurants may choose to take a chance on LS. We would appreciate non-chain authentic ethnic restaurants instead of Americanized versions. Ex: Taco Bell does not offer authentic Mexican food. Ruchi in Overland Park does offer authentic Indian food in my opinion. :-)

- Idea: Would love to see increased police and fire presence. As we've grown so has the crime and need for first responders.
- Idea: Covered Farmers Market Pavilion
 - Description: Adding a pavilion would allow for the market to be open year round. And it could be used for other events downtown.
- Idea: Attainable Housing
 - Description: We need housing in LS that are affordable for first time homebuyers and those who rent by choice. We're pricing families out of our community by not having housing that is affordable.
- Idea: More Retail & Non-Chain Restaurants in the 291/150 area
- Idea: Open Houses with City Council Members
 - Description: I would love if each District representatives in the city would hold open houses or have a board like this to express ideas or other comments about our section of the city
- Idea: Maintenance Free Community
 - Description: If we could build some 50+ maintenance free homes/town homes then it would maybe free up some other homes for people to buy and be able to keep some older people in LS too. At the school meetings I attended all fall they said the older people aren't moving out to let younger families move in due to money or they like their community, so maybe this could help everyone.
 - Comment: I agree that we could use more maintenance provided (it's never free) sub divisions. This is particularly through as the LS population ages. I like most of what we have, but we could use more.
- Idea: Community Center in SW Lees Summit
 - Description: We need a community center in this area of Lees Summit, it takes over 20 Min just to get to that side of town to go to the ball fields where the community center is. The SW side of LS is growing, and we need to have easy access to a Community Center. Please!
 - Comment: WOW. Have you seen the new center at Longview. It's great.
- Idea: Please help fix View High Drive. Potholes are horrible!
 - Description: Fix View High Drive Potholes! The Longview area is growing, but view high is a horrible road for visitors to drive on as they enter LS on the SW side.
 - Comment: I believe it belongs to KC. This needs to be negotiated as this area grows - it's a bad welcome to LS visitors and residents alike.
- Idea: A trolley car on the weekends to downtown from the bus parking lot on 50 hwy.
 - Comment: More transportation options to downtown kc, zoo, plaza for recreation and OP for commuters.
 - Comment: Yes! Great idea. More transit is needed.
 - Comment: Great idea! Downtown LS Main street has CID funds, this would be a good use of them, as people constantly complain about parking. Even though the garage at City Hall has plenty of it.
- Idea: Community gardens and orchards to promote healthy activity and more local organic food choices.
 - Comment: I was looking through the city's parks and rec offerings and found the Sylvia Mae Bailey community gardens/park. It sits on a 49.6 acre property on Ranson Road across from James A Reed Wildlife Area in eastern Lee's Summit. The property had been part of the Bailey Farm, one of the oldest in the area. In 2014 the Community Garden opened with 48 10'x10' plats. Every year our current plat holders have the first choice of renewing until January 15th. It appeared that a 10'x10 plot can be reserved for around $25. For more information please call 816-969-1533. <https://cityofls.net/parks/parks/parks/sylvia-bailey-park#295370-reserve-a-plot>

- Idea: Make our city as energy efficient and sustainable as possible beginning with grant assistance to provide solar power to lower income homes
 - Comment: We could start with leading by example for public use buildings. City Hall on Solar!
 - Comment: Solar can be great but expensive with a long term payback. Perhaps we should look at a number of options. I don't know if grant money is available but simply helping people upgrade old furnaces, air conditioner etc. can go a long way. We have done it at our home and the payback was very good.
- Idea: Sustainable developments with ideas like areas shared for parking, play grounds, clotheslines, gardens and orchards. Even tiny homes.
- Idea: Improve snow removal
 - Description: Over the last 2 years a bad service has gotten worse. Several times this winter our neighborhood has been ignored all together creating worse conditions than the initial weather. Snow removal is needed on all streets!
- Idea: Create a Makerspace for Crafting, STEM & Hobby Projects
 - Description: The Johnson County, Kansas library system offers a space with equipment such as laser cutting and engraving machines, vinyl cutters, 3D printers and other equipment that encourages citizens to exercise their creativity to make items they can use, sell or learn from. Black & Veatch sponsored their setup and the space was made available in a large room in the library. They offer supervision and technical assistance. We need a similar place in Missouri, preferable in Lee's Summit, where people can hang out, socialize and learn transferable skills. There is a #Makerspace in the technology campus by Chipman Mall but it for high school students only.
- Idea: Fix highway 291
- Description: Highway 291 is an unsightly mess with run down buildings alongside, no trees or walls, minimal upkeep on the barren strips of land on either side and in the median, constant track buildup alongside, and general lack safe walkways. This is a main thoroughfare through Lees Summit and needs a significant overhaul to revitalize the city. Just driving on that highway makes me not want to live anywhere around there. Also, leave Todd George as it is, put up more roundabouts to help reduce vehicle noise from speeders.
 - Comment: I agree. 291 needs sidewalks, bike lanes, and more trees to make it safer and more inviting to people who are not driving cars.
 - Comment: The highway and medians are MODOT, not the city, but agree, priority needs to focus on redevelopment of this area, vs chasing new opportunities in greenfield spaces. Need to re think retail and stop incentivizing new retail, which is dying, and focus on getting existing space renovated and filled. Empty lot at 291 & Langsford FOR YEARS as has been the vacant Taco Bell at 3rd, among others. Whole strip is looking run down and dated.
- Idea: FREE co-working or socializing spaces with Wifi and Cafe
 - Description: I miss Borders Book's Cafe atmosphere that provided a ""3rd place"" (Work, Home, 3rd place). We would love a beautiful, open, indoor space with great wifi, a cafe and spaces to set up your laptop to promote socializing alongside entrepreneurial endeavors. The existing for-profit co-working spaces are very expensive and the Gamber Center-like locations don't tend to cater to younger crowds. The library system tends to offer only quiet spaces without food/drinks being allowed.

- Idea: improved streetscapes along 3rd between 50/291. Its the entrance to our cute downtown, should show you're entering some place special.
 - Comment: I love our downtown area. Along with this idea, I would like to see our long term plans for the area. Senior housing, apartments would be great but would require the necessary shopping etc. to make it attractive.
- Idea: Partner with county to develop campgrounds and waterfront areas into exciting places to spend time with family. Cabins, yurts, water feature
 - Comment: Elevated Hiking trails, art installations, ATV Park, recreation resort like Jellystone :)
 - Comment: My only concern with this idea is the budget for it. Love the idea but isn't the city's budget stretched thin with current projects?
 - Comment: Definitely need year round campgrounds.
- Idea: BYU Missouri
 - Description: Work with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints to develop part of their 4000 Lees Summit acres into a major campus of the BYU University system. Jobs... Visitors... Cultural Vibrancy... City Beautification...
 - Comment: Does that conflict with separation of Church and State?
 - Comment: Since the City wouldn't own/run the school, I don't think so. The city should be able to support such a project as an economic development effort... roads, zoning, etc... the same as if another private institution like Baker, DeVry, or University of Phoenix were to open a campus. If we're interested in differentiating Lees Summit from Overland Park... this would do it.
- Idea: Parks & Recreation Facilities
 - Description: It's wonderful to look back on the development of full service Parks & Recreation facilities such as Legacy Park Community Center and the recently acquired Longview Community Center. They are fabulous! What about envisioning and building a similar facility in north Lee's Summit in the area of Woods Chapel Road and I470? Lee's Summit Population keeps growing!
- Idea: Performing Arts Center
 - Description: A Lee's Summit Performing Arts Center would greatly contribute to further distinguish Lee's Summit as a vibrant, ever-developing community and destination in the region. The Lee's Summit Symphony Orchestra already has an excellent reputation in the area and brings notoriety to Lee's Summit, however, they sorely need a true performing ""home"". As well, the venue could be the home for other musical, theater and dance organizations and their performances, establishing a hub for the arts for the entire region."
- Idea: Less focus on retail, housing and density/apartments, and more focus on bringing employment opportunities to LS.
 - Description: Significant population growth will strain already problematic transportation thru-ways. LS is a great place to live and play but too few opportunities to work here. Retail has a cloudy future and too many empty store fronts already. Need to focus on jobs, and workforce readiness in the schools.

- Comment: I agree with more jobs. I would like to see us build off of the two hospitals we have and make LS the place in Jackson county to come for health care issues of all types.
 - Comment: If you bring employment you will need housing, why not live & work in the same city
 - Idea: Let's not go crazy with building apartment complexes everywhere. Definately agree 291 thru town could use some help.
 - Comment: I agree that apartments can be overdone and create problems for our schools as turnover is higher in apartment complexes than family homes. Perhaps, consideration could be given to more town homes that are purchased. Although I am not a fan of the two story jammed together projects that soon become eye sores with tons of cars and unkept areas. It is a dilemma. We need pride of ownership along with affordable housing.
 - Idea: Bike Lanes and Transit
 - Description: Creating bike lanes and having good transit will reduce traffic, noise pollution, and air pollution.
 - Comment: I agree with Bus transit, but do not think rail is practical for linking LS to other parts of KC. I get concerned that the idea of bike trails is more of a status symbol than something we need to be spending money on. We have the Katy Trail which will be wonderful for bikers, walkers and runner. Perhaps, using the trail as a hub of sorts additional off street trails can be added. Trails throughout our parks are already built. I don't think we are going to see that much bike use as a percent of the population that merits setting aside street width for bike paths.
 - Comment: Would like to see parking at appropriate spots along the Katy trail for people to utilize when taking bikes to the trail. This would be especially helpful for those living further away from the trail and families with smaller children who like to bike.
 - Comment: What type of transit does everyone want? Not likely you will see a streetcar or train from out here going into downtown LS or even into Downtown KC
 - Comment: We need a local bus system with around 5 or 6 routes that run through the city of Lee's Summit between Monday thru Sunday. The buses should connect to shopping and high resident areas, like New Longview, Downtown Lee's Summit, and the 291 area. We don't need parking at the Katy Trail areas. Parking is a waste of space and Lee's Summit residents should bike to the trails. The city should put bike lanes that connect to the trails so that people can bike to the trails safely. Hopefully bike lanes will encourage more people to bike to work and use bicycles as a mode of transportation.
 - Comment: Yes, many people who can't drive a car would benefit from having a bus system to use to get to a store for grocery shopping for example.
 - Idea: More Sidewalks and Bicycle Infrastructure
 - Description: The best type of cities are the ones that are not car oriented and that are focused on safer and environmentally friendly streets. 3rd street and the interchange at 50 Highway and 3rd streets needs sidewalks, bike lanes, and some public art under the highway to make the intersection safer for pedestrians and more beautiful.
 - Idea: Urban Development

- Description: Urban development allows people to walk to great restaurants and activities. It will make Lee's Summit more vibrant. It will attract more single individuals who don't want to own a home.
- Idea: Road Diets
 - Description: Slower car speeds make neighborhoods safer for everyone.
- Idea: For Mayor and Council elections, if 3 or more candidates are running, should the winner be ""highest number of votes"" or some other method?
 - Description: Electing Council Members
- Idea: More creative spaces
 - Description: there are lots of artists (visual and performing) in the community but they have limited places to show their work, expand their businesses, or teach their craft. A performing or cultural arts center would be great.
- Idea: Maintain and Upgrade Your Ride KC Commuter Support Instead of Cutting It
 - Description: I am sorely disappointed that the City has cut funding to the Ride KC 550 commuter bus line to/from Downtown KC starting April 1st. This service is crucial to many in the greater Lee's Summit community. Without this route, I (and many others) would not be able to go downtown to work every day. Those of us that rely on the 550 bus need it to be running at full capacity, and cutting the amount of routes each way is a terrible disservice to the greater Lee's Summit community. This decision makes it harder for Lee's Summit area residents to get to (and from) jury duty, state court, federal court and to work. This decision makes it harder for Lee's Summit area residents that are struggling (physically, mentally or financially) to get to the services that they need in Kansas City. KCATA has already eliminated the closest bus stops to the Federal Courthouse (which houses Bankruptcy Court). Adequate access to support services and government agencies in Kansas City for Lee's Summit area residents is necessary. Please don't cut this needed service.
- Idea: More KC to LS train action
 - Description: LS needs to negotiate a higher frequency of commuter train travel between KC & LS. The influx of tourists would certainly help bring the cute boutique restaurants people have mentioned. Avoid highway congestion for us commuting downtown for work. A nice way to pop into the city to have lunch, dinner, or see a show.
- Idea: Anti-Discrimination Policy to protect the LGBTQIA community from discrimination.
 - Description: There is no law in Missouri or Lee's Summit that protects LGBTQIA individuals from being fired because of their sexual orientation. Everyone should be able to express themselves without being worried of being fired or discriminated.
 - Comment: Agreed!
- Idea: Consider painting the railroad trestle which crosses 3 rd Street between Forestpark Blvd and Pryor in keeping with the quality image of LS.

Forum Questions

What do you hope Lee's Summit will be known for in the future?

- "It's ability to grow without losing its character.
- A collaborative community focused on the safety of its residents, strong school system, parks and forward thinking businesses.
- A community committed to parks, green spaces, and multi-generational activities. Lee's Summit should be seen as a great place for younger adults to live, for families to work and raise children, and for older adults to enjoy their retirement. A multi-generational focus will help us all to become a community of caring citizens rather than a city of strangers.

- A community successfully adapted to the changing climate with progressive sustainability goals of preserving the quality of the environment and availability of natural resources.
- A quaint historic community providing state of the art education and new business opportunities while maintaining it's historic feel. The best place to live in the country
- A safe, clean family-friendly place with a strong community.
- An inclusive and diverse community that celebrates and maintains its history
- Clean, safe, welcoming, friendly, fun, home. "
- Cultural arts and beauty
- Good paying jobs for residents.
- Green approach to recycling, making it a profit center instead of a cost center.
- Safe first. Clean, good for living, good for visiting. Schools and businesses collaborate for mutual benefit. All types of work available.
- That LS is a safe, inclusive, family friendly, forward thinking community leading the western region of the state with a strategic plan which includes a balanced tax base, arts and cultural amenities, vibrant redeveloped and redeveloping neighborhoods, and a capital improvements budget understanding the needs to redevelop aging infrastructure and neighborhoods. That LS was responsible for insuring that the Mormon Property (4500 acres) development pays for itself AND its impacts on the city budget, including the lost opportunities for redevelopment associated with the inevitable " shining object" of new development

When you look at our community and its place in the region, what opportunities do you see?

- "With the development of Eastern Lee's Summit, there is an opportunity to improve 50 Hwy. 6 lanes compared to 4 lanes.
- Almost as many commute TO the city, as commute FROM the city.
- History, lakes, green space, family oriented, respect and opportunity for elders, hopefully tech jobs, healthcare jobs, office work, large corp jobs.
- I love the quaint, eclectic vibe in the Downtown Lee's Summit area. Lees Summit has unfortunately been jokingly referred to as 'wannabe Johnson County'. Having recently moved to Lee's Summit from Johnson County, I can tell you that I don't revere them as the same or even sll that similar really. As a whole the overall pace in JC is much faster, it's big city in every way. Any traffic flow beyond two lanes overwhelms most eastern Jackson county drivers that still seem to struggle with merging without braking if not stopping. I'd like it if Lee's Summit would stick to a feel more like 'Perfect' Prairie Village or Leawood which in a lot of ways it already mimicks. Do you! Great small community charm, but close access to the big city happenings. Although it would be nice to have a Whole Foods so we didn't have to drive to 119th and Metcalf for high PH water not to mention waaaaay better pricing than you find at HyVee on healthy food options. Sprouts is nice, but isn't the same. I like that I hv cheaper prices for fuel and lower taxes. Do you! And maybe bring in a change up with some type of country music establishment downtown! That's all I can think of on the fly at this moment.
- Lee's Summit is a place with great and easy access to Kansas City, Overland Park, and the Northland, allowing citizens with many choices for work and entertainment. However, we are also a place known for our innovative parks and our green spaces. Lee's Summit should be seen as the best of both worlds; convenient city access and nearby community spaces.

- LS has competitors- current and past: JOCO, Independence with 32 sq miles of Mormon Property vs our 7 sq miles of undeveloped land. LS must be a regional political leader to have a seat at the regional table to insure opportunities for infrastructure and federal dollars are not allocated appropriately given the way MARC dollars are allocated. Its place in the region needs to transform from an net exporter of workers to an importer of workers--not in retail but in higher paying jobs. This can only be done with patience, preservation of key commercial and industrial properties adjacent to regional infrastructure.
- The need for more family friendly activities besides mini golf and trampolines."
- We are currently a bedroom community. Everyone lives here but works in Johnson County. It's great that we have a commuter lot, but the bus only goes to Missouri. We should take advantage of that by offering bus service to and from 119th and College Ave in Johnson County. We need to offer some family event spaces that Johnson County offers in order to keep people here, rather than spending their money over there. ie. TopGolf; Dave & Busters
- When considering ideas for the PRI property, and working with PRI, consider reserving a piece of the property for an "out of the box" community area. Focused on high-technology, connectivity, sustainability, green, etc. I would suggest partnering with an interested area company - perhaps Cerner and/or Black & Veach. The kind of thinking I'm suggesting is like the Quayside proposal in Toronto https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Quayside,_Toronto - see also https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sidewalk_Labs and <https://www.sidewalklabs.com/>

What are the emerging challenges for our community?

- We need to 'look' as good as we are--like upgrade our street scape along 50--the same for 291--get rid of the old Taco Bell and Steak & Shake buildings; Neither of these routes reflect our quaint downtown. People love the farmer's market but the lot is too small, located in a bad area. The area across from the front entrance of City Hall is an eyesore. We need another restaurant & bar downtown, like 3rd St Social that appeals to the millennial. Our challenge is to grow and attract young talent, but still remain quaint & family friendly.
- "A concern we are facing is improving public transportation to allow persons with limited funds / possibly no vehicle of their own, the ability to look for work and have a job that might not be within walking distance of their home.
- We have improved transportation into the metro, but within our city, we still are lacking. Uber and taxis are more expensive. One problem in the cycle for those in the poverty level is no job, but no transportation to get to work if /when they do have a job. We need to break that cycle."
- An emerging challenge I see for our community is to provide for those who find themselves homeless. We may not have a huge group in that population now, but it is increasing. Living in cars, or couch surfing is not viable for a family. I see the apartments owned by JKV sitting empty, falling apart along Pryor Rd at Murray Rd and envision a homeless/ transitional housing complex. What can we do to be proactive in this area?
- "The absorption of the Mormon 4500 acres is a huge challenge. It can be hodge podge small scale development or master planned , multi generational land use which is not short term in its sale, rather long term for the betterment of the community. New is not always good for the old. The development needs to pay for itself AND it should include a development fee , a dedicated portion of which , needs to be redirected to redevelopment of the existing city infrastructure, staffing, neighborhoods etc. Also, the trend to apartment living is a double edged sword: more people in the schools without the attendant real estate taxes associated with home ownership. Population which does not pay for its own way will eventually compromise city finances and unbalance the budget.

- Also: the population is aging. Aging population needs are very different from millennials for example. "
- One of the problems I see Lee's Summit having is rapid growth. While we typically think of growth as a sign of a healthy economy, we need to make sure we have adequate resources to upkeep our parks, roads, schools, and fund our police department. I've lived in a city where it grew too fast within a matter of a few years and people left it just as quickly leaving it devastated and in disarray. Growth can be good, but please aim to pursue steady growth.
- Do we want to be a bedroom community, small town, up and coming suburb, our own empire like OP? Not all are compatible with each other. What do those with differences do? Move? Stay?
- The growth is happening so fast and causing issues along the way with our schools being over crowded, areas being over populated with apartments, not able to handle the sudden influx of traffic on the roads causing heavy congestion during peak times, not enough police and fire personnel to support the growth. And I agree with the other comment regarding the aging...we are out growing them and that saddens me. Many find the area now too busy to drive in town and the roundabouts intimidate them. We are essentially pushing them out.
- I think with many of the new neighborhood developments, we are pricing some families out of living in our community. First time home buyers, or renters by choice, need homes that are attainable and reasonably priced. One challenge would be how to keep these families (and their talent) in our community instead of pushing them into Raytown, Independence, or Blue Springs.
- Need more middle income jobs. City needs to be aggressive in recruiting larger corporate type work. We have lots of small business but not enough higher paying clerical/ office/ management type positions.
- Zoning!!! Restaurants and retail establishments are great, but unchecked, they become a blight on the community. We also need to put safety, ethics, and legal concerns over business real estate sales and corporate taxes. Recently a number of "massage" business have moved in next to reputable small businesses. While the massage industry is by and large honest and ethical, these small business keep very odd hours, and their windows are completely covered by advertisements. They look exactly like storefronts for human trafficking businesses that have been discovered in neighboring communities. Allowing the trafficking of human beings is something to which we are all opposed. It seems to appear that our beautiful city is the next stop for such traffickers. More vigilance is needed when issuing business licenses and more oversight is needed for business that are often associated with criminal activities. (We also have more than our fair share of car washes, a common front for money laundering.) In addition, as we grow, more effort will be needed to preserving the beauty of our community, from signage to green spaces surrounding buildings and strip malls.
- "Traffic along 50 Hwy, congested with entrance exit ramps back to back and only 4 lanes of highway to handle the load.
- Not enough parking in downtown Lees Summit. Along with not enough late night eateries. A late night food truck lot would be nice.
- Upgrade facade of buildings along 291. Most of the buildings are old and look like the dated strip malls that they are. Demolish uninhabited buildings. Steak and Shake, Applebees, taco Bell etc.
- Need more corporate or large scale employers in the area. Manufacturing/Tech jobs.
- Shaded dog parks with larger walking trails.
- Todd George needs a middle turning lane running from 50 Hwy to Colbern. "
- We are concerned over the amount of litter in our community. We recently traveled through GA where fines for any litter is $1000. They have pristine roadways and highways. We cannot believe the amount of litter allowed along our streets and highways. We would like to see higher and enforced fines with much better clean up efforts. We should ask that every business be responsible for their space clear to the street. We are blessed to live in such a great city, it would be even greater if we could be proud of the cleanliness!

- Totally agree. Seems like we've been pursuing 'all of the above' strategy. Think we should slow down and focus on keeping our size manageable, not adding more housing, and expand the tax base through focusing efforts on being attractive to high wage job creators, and supporting existing businesses vs incentives only for those coming from outside of LS.
- Housing stock that does not match the demand. I am not in favor of more apartments, but do think there needs to be options developed for those looking to downsize, but still own their residence. But single story, as aging demographic rules out multi story dwellings with stairs. Realize this is a private sector issue but city should not compromise standards to get there. We have a UDO for a reason. Also need to realize we can't be everything to everyone. Don't compromise existing property values and the goodwill of longtime residents who are invested in both money and time in this community in order to chase some ideal that we can solve every problem out there. See surrounding communities who have declined in the past few decades, and learn why they have declined, don't make the same mistakes.
- "I completely agree! Property value seems to only go up in LS, which is great for existing home owners and new buyers with high incomes, but makes it incredibly hard for young families to move in.
- LS needs a plan for affordable housing and recognize that diversity does help our city!"
- I agree. I grew up in LS, moved away for college and moved back 4 years ago. I was gone for 7 years. And the amount of growth in that time has been impressive. However our roads take too long to get clear of snow, potholes are unfixed for weeks and roadways are not wide enough for the amount of traffic. I feel this will only worsen as LS grows and our neighboring areas like Raintree and Greenwood grow. Their residents drive through LS to get home and come to LS for our business, entertainment, etc.
- "I agree. I was away from LS for 7 years and moved back about 4 years ago and seeing homeless in LS was honestly a shock for me. But it is something we need to have a plan for and I do not think that plan is shipping them to KC for their shelter and social service help.
- I'd like to see programs to help the homeless transition into the workforce. LS has many many middle to min wage jobs with our current businesses. What can we do to collaborate with them to start a program?"
- I've been thinking of alternative transportation. I'm not sure how a bus system would work, but I do think there are opportunities for more bike friendly streets. I would ride my bike more, but the roads and drivers are dangerous and no one pays attention because they are not used to bikers.
- Perhaps if the City revived its "Adopt-A-Street" program, and expanded it beyond the small number of streets that were considered "available", that would help clean up after inconsiderate literers.
- There will be more and more requests for business incentives (TIFs, CIDs, TDDs, etc.) - for new projects, continuing developments, and retention. The City should have a clear set of priorities and guidelines for incentives, and those priorities and guidelines should be developed with INFORMED guidance from citizens. They should be what's long-term strategically best for the City, rather than what's desired by developers in the short-term.
- The health and sustainability of the environment in and around lakes in the City is a strategic issue. As an example, Prairie Lee Lake is silting up and will, in the future, get worse and worse. Other lakes may have similar situations. Ecological sustainability of the City's lakes should be part of the strategic plan.

- Water and Wastewater. The "Water Strategic Plan" is from 2011, and the Water Master Plan and Wastewater Master Plans are from 2006. Because the City does not directly control provision of water supply and wastewater disposal, strategic planning needs to assure the continued provision of these. And the City's infrastructure plans need to be reviewed and updated, and revised due to the PRI properties future.

What services does the City organization provide that you appreciate most?

- As a survivor of crime, safety is a key factor for me in determining where to live. Safety, along with stellar school districts, contributed to us moving to LS from Johnson County, KS when our jobs moved across the state line.
- LSPD and LSF. In light of the horrible winter I am pleased with our public works department as well.
- "Excellent community policing and fire capacity.
- A stable tax base is essential.
- A stable civic political dialogue based on facts, current and future needs needs not short term political expedience. "
- We chose to stay and purchase a home in Lee's Summit instead of Overland Park because the police department is active and easy to get a hold of when needed. We see them on patrol and appreciate their efforts to show presence in the community. We also like that there are ordinances in place to keep buildings in good shape and the parks offer fun activities for our family.
- Public Safety.
- "Access to community events. We love the events in Downtown LS!
- Public Works, LSPD, and LSF. do a great job as well!
- Parks and Rec is excellent.
- Community education/classes available thru library and community college.
- Have heard Development Services at city hall is excellent.
- I love our parks system! Legacy Park is an amazing resource - both the community center/gym and the Legacy Loop. Lowenstein Park is also a favorite of mine. My husband and I attend the Art Fair every year, and we enjoy more than the one held at the Plaza. Thanks Lee's Summit!
- Televising and online access to city meetings & docs. LS Connect app, Council debrief, newsletters. Much improved communications over the last few years.
- I agree that it's much improved - partly due to the recent addition of the Creative Services organization (Cheryl Nash and her crew). But it could be improved a lot more. For instance: why isn't the Parks & Rec Board meeting televised and recorded for later viewing? Why do several of the Boards and Commissions not make their minutes available - and when they get presentations or monthly documents, those aren't available online, either.
- I greatly appreciate the Ride KC 550 commuter bus line to/from Downtown KC. This service is crucial to many in the greater Lee's Summit community. Without this route, I (and many others) would not be able to go downtown to work every day. This route makes it possible for Lee's Summit area residents to get to (and from) jury duty, state court, federal court and to work. Adequate access to support services and government agencies in Kansas City for Lee's Summit area residents is necessary. Please continue to support this service at full capacity.
- This isn't a "service" - but I really appreciate the Accreditations, Certifications and National Awards/Recognitions that the City achieves (and that individual employees achieve). Some of those Accreditations and Certifications take a huge amount of work (Fire Department for example) and all of them are a big benefit to the City. There should be more encouragement and recognition of these achievements.

What services or programs would you like to see improved or changed?

- Curbside Leaf pick up and storm damage pick up. The older neighborhoods have large beautiful trees, most of which are not in an HOA's. Many of the leaves and branches unintentionally end up in the sewers.
- There is NO strategic, NO staff , NO policy focus on redevelopment of commercial and neighborhoods . The city needs to be proactive rather than respond to private sector driven opportunities. A public / private partnership is ideal for successful redevelopment. The older neighborhoods which have resales require new buyers with enough funds (income) to make the needed improvements. Each neighborhood has its own physical and demographic challenges. One size does not fit all in neighborhood redevelopment
- I would like to see more sidewalks. I regularly take my infant out in her stroller when the weather permits because it's one of the only ways she will fall asleep. Our favorite stretch is around Lee's Summit North High School because there are wide open sidewalks. I understand we may not be able to do that everywhere, but it's nice to have sidewalks to promote physical activity and keeps kids from walking in the streets or through people's lawns.
- Infrastructure maintenance. Storm drains, sidewalks, streets, etc.
- "Adding more sidewalks would be nice, as well as continuing maintenance on some of the older sidewalks.
- Storm water maintenance needs to continue to be addressed.
- A covered facility for the farmers market so the market can go year round."
- I would like to see the "Public Comments" agenda item on the City Council Meeting agenda, restored to its historical position near the beginning of the meeting. My PERCEPTION is that Public Comments have been moved to much later in the meeting, to discourage citizens from speaking at Council meetings.
- I would like the Public Works plan involving ice/snow removal to be reviewed & updated as needed. Add more trucks, plows, personnel to match the cities growth. It seems like our cities current plan is confusing & frustrating as to how to see real time updates, planned routes, request a plow if a street is missed, etc. From what I have seen it looks like nearby cities smaller & larger have more efficient plans in place.
- The rail bridge(bike trail) crossing 3rd Street between Forestpark Blvd and Pryor Ave. is rusty and has graffiti. The appearance does not convey a positive image to visitors. We cannot find anyone who takes responsibility for addressing this issue? While the bike trail is a wonderful addition, the crossover could be made more attractive.
- Real-time information would be great. Overland Park (and other cities) have an online city map. The available cameras (intersections, etc.) can be viewed using that map. Street problems (blocked, accidents, etc.) are flagged with information. And then, during the winter, you can see the progress of winter storm operations (plowing, salting, etc.). You can zoom in to your neighborhood. When the city says they are finished with operations, you can see if the map shows that they SAY they have done your street. And, when they are doing a great job, the real time map is a fantastic way to brag about the progress.
- "Redevelopment of 291. It's looking run down.
- More commercial, office, corporate tax revenue and jobs.
- Need a major green space like legacy or KC's Loose Park on SW side of LS"
- Better zoning on 291 Highway; nicer signage that is easy to see while driving and a more cohesive look to the area as a whole. Also, while I know this is probably not cost-effective, I would love it if the Park and Rec Department could clear the snow (or at least treat for ice) on Legacy Loop, Lowenstein Park, and on our other walking/running trails

- We used to have this, no idea why it stopped
- And a way to encourage people to keep these cleared in the winter. Sidewalks do little good when covered in snow and ice. Todd George is the worst, as plows toss all of the snow from the road onto the sidewalks, and no one bothers to clear them, they are among the last to melt. It's not popular, but some municipalities fine people who don't clear sidewalks,. Not sure we need to go that far, but all the people who talk about wanting this to be a more walkable community must only be talking about only when it doesn't snow.
- Our trash hauler, Constable, includes this as part of their services, as long as its in certain dimensions, and will do larger item pickup for a reasonable fee. Likely those neglected areas are likely due to homes being rental properties, and landlords not taking care of this in a timely manner. My son has rentals on each side and ends up with all the leaves and debris into his yard whenever the wind blows, so has to take care of his as well as the neighbor's leaves, as the tenants don't bother. Codes should enforce debris blocking storm drains.
- "Please note that if it's included as part of the service that you are paying for, then it's not free. And if the city provided leaf pick up and storm damage pick up, that wouldn't be free, either - your taxes and fees would pay for it.
- Of course, the city COULD require all trash haulers to include leaf pick up and storm damage pick up as an included part of their services - and that wouldn't be free, either."
- It stopped because Public Works deliberately stopped providing the publicly-accessible snow operations map. (And it never did have camera video, etc.). Then they quit having a person answer the "snow desk" telephone - just a recorded message. Of course, for THEIR use, Public Works says they have a system that shows them exactly where the trucks are right now, what they are doing, and what streets have been plowed/salted. [Oh, one reason they quit providing the real-time map is that they say it's dangerous for their drivers if we know where they are]
- Are there opportunities for the City to enhance or improve services? I believe there should be a department in the city that concentrates on exactly that - enhancing and improving services. I think it would have 3 people (areas that need to be enhanced): [1] COMMUNICATIONS. This person will concentrate on looking for places where communications with stakeholders could/should be improved, convincing people to do that, and facilitating (but NOT actually doing) communications. [2] QUALITY. This person's focus will be on HELPING staff find more simple and effective ways to enhance accomplishment of the City's Core Values - in other words, continual improvement and performance excellence. [3] OMBUDSPERSON (Public Advocate). This person's focus will be on assisting individuals in navigating the beaurocracy and achieving resolution of questions. The process should be confidential where possible, and neutral (i.e., the answer often might be "no", rather than "yes"). [FINALLY] This department should be chartered to provide the same benefits to the City Council that it provides to the City Staff.
- There needs to be an online engagement tool, for citizens to send comments to the Council regarding items that are on the Council and Council Committee agendas. The tool should make it possible for city staff to consolidate those comments and provide them to council rapidly in an organized fashion. This would facilitate citizen engagement, and help the Council stay informed about public opinion. And it would save Council time in listening to verbal public comments. (I note that the City already has a license for such a tool, but there might be better systems available)
- The City's Code of Ordinances has laws originating before 1988, and is badly in need of revision. In some cases they are obsolete (example: "Any operator or driver overtaking and desiring to pass a vehicle shall sound his horn before starting to pass"). In other cases, they don't actually describe their purpose (example: "Any person who shall throw, pass, catch or kick any ball on or in any of the streets, sidewalks, lanes or alleys of the City shall be guilty of an offense." instead of saying don't interfere with traffic). Sometimes it's not clear why the ordinance makes sense or still applies. I believe that a board of citizens could best examine the ordinances, working with staff, and recommend changes to the City Council.

- Meetings of Committees, Boards, and Commissions are listed online by the city, with the agenda. Some of these post minutes of the meeting, but not all. That should be corrected. All of them should post minutes, for future reference. And where they received presentations, reports, or documents, links to those documents should be included in the minutes. The City should establish methods to assure that is done, and conduct audits to check compliance.
- I believe that all Committees, Boards, and Commissions should be required to present an annual report to the City Council at a Council meeting. This would provide the council with the opportunity to also ask questions, and most importantly would provide some public exposure for them, and the opportunity for the Council to thank them for their contributions to the City. Note: it might be appropriate for Council Committees and the Parks & Recreation Board to be included in this, also.
- I understand it's not free, but only a few bucks a month from a private hauler unless it's a large quantity, and don't think it's the city's responsibility to take care of people's storm damage. It would not be 'free' and likely more cost effective in the private sector, and better customer service, as there is competition for your business. If the city took it over, it would not have competition.
- It is difficult for a "normal individual citizen" to communicate with the City Council - as a Council. Of course, public comment at a Council Meeting is one method - but this tends to be only one direction, and sometimes disrupts normal business. I believe that there should be a way to send email to all Council members. And, quoting the Mayor, "Two way communication is the only path to create the culture of collaboration that I seek to help facilitate". So, this should be acknowledged as appropriate (initially a simple "thank you and we'll think about it"), and the Council should quickly decide whether to take any action. That decision should be a rather simple matter.

- I have no idea.

- Engage citizens. Through boards and commissions, committees, one-time events.
- engage community by trying to keep residents aware. Downtown area is very nice

- Forward thinking. Always trying to think of what residents will want/need in the future.
- Gives the public easy access to parks facilities.
- Great customer service in every area.
- Growth
- I believe that it has great dialogue with its citizens.
- I believe that most of our services are way above standard. Working for the PD, I know that there are several services that we complete that are not required of other similar police departments. Some of these are lockouts, neighborhood meetings, a massive amount of community interaction and involvement (Special Olympics, Freezing for a Reason, etc)
- I believe the level of customer service is far above surrounding jurisdictions. I think that we adapt and overcome difficulties with budgeting as best we can.
- I do believe we provide the best city services of any community in the metro.
- I stayed because of the schools but now I'm worried. I do enjoy having access to everything I need relatively close as far as shopping and entertainment.
- I think the City does well in promoting it's image and through their PSA partners, their development and district successes. Marketing and branding has allowed for a lot of visibility for the City, especially our downtown district.
- I think we have a willing attitude to listen to all ideas and complaints.
- Improving infrastructure in a timely manner.
- Infrastructure, economic development, and public safety.
- Innovative and progressive
- Is openly transparent with the public.
- Listen to citizens and give them a chance to be involved.
- Listens and provides a high quality of life

- Maintains City infrastructure. Promotes development within the City.
- Maintains the past with the future
- maintenance programs for water and streets
- Makes costly improvements
- making people mad
- Managing growth.
- Managing the benefits for employees has always been outstanding. As an employee I have always appreciated the level of insurance and benefits the city provides.

- Not sure. They don't seem to care about the employees salaries, especially those that have been there for any length of time. Pay is a major issue. Fair pay between the police and fire dispatch is a big issue. The mayor said it would be taken care of, but as of this survey, it hasn't been.
- Nothing. The City is mired in delivering mediocrity. The City doesn't strive for excellence, which would require the allocation of resources to develop and keep personnel
- Parks, roads, police department
- Police and Fire services along with our Parks and Rec.

- Serves the citizens above and beyond what other cities do.
- Single-family subdivisions.
- Snow plowing the streets. Creating parks for kids.
- Spend money on Parks projects.
- Spending tax dollars (or giving incentives) to benefit the general public and not individuals.
- Spends money on "wants" over "needs".
- Support of economic development
- Taking care of our Parks
- That is has a good vision of how it wants to operate it's parks
- The City hires good, dedicated people as employees.
- The City of Lee's Summit has a vibrant downtown.

- The Parks department provides a lot of options that are reasonably priced. Enhances the overall community.
- The Parks Dept offers a lot to our residents.
- These community strategic plans - have had great success with them in the past and happy to see the City doing another one.
- They care very much about the word community and striving to help in anyway possible.
- Waste tax payer money with excessive surveys, studies, and development initiatives.
- We generally maintain both equipment and vehicles very well, with the newest technology.
- We have done very well in our response to growth issues. Despite the significant growth in both residential and commercial investments, Lee's Summit continues to be a comfortable place where people can still be friendly and open to each other.
- We have exceptional personnel that are dedicated to the community in all departments. The showpiece: the parks department. That said, they could work to make our city more active with a bike path that connects the city without the need for vehicles.
- We strive to provide the best customer service possible, and we consistently accomplish a tremendous workload.
- Work together- example the water trucks were out distributing salt to help when the snow storms hit this past Winter. Everyone worked together to get the job done.
- Working with customers in a friendly manner
- Works with citizens to provide quick responses to their needs

Question 7: What do you believe is the most significant challenge facing the City?

- Voice of a small group economic and racial bigots receive the most attention in local politics and setting policy decisions.// Over committing resources to fire protection while neglecting community policing and crime prevention efforts // Groups have successfully lobbied elected officials to ignore City Staff and other expert advice to adopt take actions that have cost the residents and the City millions of dollars annually. Elected officials fomenting distrust and disrespect of City Staff.
- A new sense of "protectionism" from a portion of our residents who have been fortunate to be given opportunities to create wealth for their families. Lee's Summit has been a community with residents who represent a broad diversity of economic class. There seems to be a fear that assuring opportunity for working class or lower-income households to grow with the City is a negative concept.
- affordable housing
- Affordable housing.
- Aging workforce and cost of technology required to deliver the end product.
- Attracting and maintaining a quality workforce
- Attracting decent restaurants and entertainment
- Attracting new businesses.
- Balancing commercial development and residential needs; especially where the two are in close proximity to each other.
- Balancing employee wages while providing services to the citizens.
- Being able to sustain and grow service levels to meet all of the needs/wants of the community.
- Bringing in companies
- budget
- Budget !
- Budget. Stop the safety fair - post online instead.

- Changing public perception that the City is "the bad guy". Communicating to citizens. Making citizens aware of what's going on, how we do our work. As we grow - Addressing the discourse between the city's rural roots and a growing suburb. There's no true "identity" here because of this.
- City budget, Oversized an overfunded Fire Department
- City manager. Looking at the entire city, all departments have been negatively impacted by his fiscal policies limiting their growth and retention of personnel.
- Competition with other local suburb cities
- Complacency among leadership
- Continued revenue to operate at its best.
- Costs of service expectations and maintenance needs that exceeds revenue...Funding
- Creating new housing that is affordable to younger/lower income people.
- Decisions too political
- development
- don't give away too much to the developers
- Economic and racial divide.
- Employee compensation.
- Ensuring revenue streams are sufficient to provide the level of personnel/services to meet citizen's high expectations. I believe citizens are willing to pay for that level of service/environment, take JOCO KS. for instance.
- entitlement mentality of long term employees; fear of management to manage
- Fair pay between occupations and bringing in new businesses. It would be nice to be more like Johnson county Kansas and have the restaurants and stuff that they do.
- Fairness
- Financial resources
- Finding the resources to retain quality employees.
- Funding
- Funding of services
- Future of financial health
- getting along
- Green spaces, plus blight in areas
- Growing development without the foundation of infrastructure and city personnel to meet the needs of the rapidly increasing development and people.
- growth and how to manage that growth
- Growth in schools
- Handling quick growth of city
- Hiring and training, educated quality personnel to direct and maintain the water and wastewater systems.
- Honesty and Integrity
- I believe there are a few things standing in the way first is sustainable wages, next is cross training the city does not do a great job about having more than one person that can answer a question if for example an employee is out for the day or week this to me doesn't help the citizen!
- I feel the leadership in city administration does not have the best interest of the citizens and employees at the forefront of their decisions. I feel decisions are made to benefit the few connected businesses and community figures while providing mediocrity to the rest.
- Infrastructure

- Infrastructure and affordable housing
- Keeping its employees to keep continuity!
- keeping pace with rapid influx of development and increased population
- Keeping prices down while still giving quality services.
- Keeping talented individuals to stay working for the City
- keeping up with resident expectations regarding level of service without raising taxes or other revenues
- Keeping up with the growth of the city. Emergency services, streets, CVM ect.....
- Lack of diversity. We need to create a community that welcomes all economic backgrounds and learn from the various experiences we have so we can include everyone going forward.
- Lack of internal communication and willingness to work together for a solution that may require going through a lot of red tape.
- Maintain safety and law enforcement
- Maintaining the current level of growth and service.
- Maintaining the Public infrastructure and the R-7 school systems growth.
- Maintenance of the older infrastructure.
- Making employees feel like the city cares about them and you're not just a number and can be replaced by the next guy. The constant revolving door of employees right now indicates this place has turned into a training ground and people do not care about the city because the city doesn't care about them.
- Managing increased demand for services on limited funding.
- Modernization. Dealing with disruption and being able to be proactive instead of reactive.
- Money - Providing adequate compensation to ensure talented employees don't leave for work elsewhere.
- multi cultural
- Need to attract construction of office parks and large similar to OP and KC. Reduce the commute by attracting development of mid to large companies as a corporate office location.
- Nimby's
- Not enough affordable housing. Citizens not wanting to pay higher taxes than the surrounding towns.
- Ourselves
- Over population and lack of schools. We need another high school. Also the drug problem here and in our schools. Lack of funding for our police/fire especially for a growing city.
- Pay and retention of employees.
- Pay scale competitiveness and raises
- Planning for the future and growing the City the best way possible
- Politics, pride
- Problems include high cost of living. Challenges are something that are done on the weekend lol.
- Providing for Police and Fire
- Public safety
- Public safety, health care, wages, infrastructures.
- Rapid growth
- Rapid growth. Serving all neighborhoods equally.
- Recognizing the city's shifting demographics.
- Remaining financially stable
- Residents feeling connected to City government.

- resources into the future, revenue keeping up with all we want to do
- Revenue
- Revenue generation
- Right now I would say gaining the Trust of the Employees that have been left behind in the area of compensation.
- Rising above continually to do the right thing and make right decisions.
- Shifting away from depending on new construction growth to address budget issues like employee compensation.
- small business.
- Sometimes the cost of living.
- Spoiled citizens and uninformed elected officials
- Sustainability. Single family homes alone cannot sustain a city, more diversified development is needed to not only create a solid tax base but also to provide the opportunities and continued interest for residents.
- the expansion and growth of the community.
- The biggest challenge I see for our City is maintaining basic services, remaining competitive as an employer, and meeting the challenge of the future growth and development within the City.
- The City Administrator's management of resources, funds, and employees. Plus his unconcerned attitude with employee morale and worthiness to City goals.
- the city manager
- The City of Lee's Summit has a challenging relationship with some critical departments (Police, Fire, and others) due to lack of pay in comparison to similar size organizations locally.
- The Cost of Living
- The current city administration.
- The current city administrator
- The funds to continue providing services without eliminating other services or employees.
- The influx of people and the public services it will need to provide to those citizens to maintain the quality of life the citizens of Lee's Summit expect.
- The influx of people from outside jurisdictions preying on our citizens who can be naïve. Revitalization of the older areas in the city.
- The lack of of an administration that supports the value of employees. Currently, employees do not feel valued, largely because admin and council don't.
- The overall lack of proactive code enforcement. If this keeps up, we will be Raytown or Grandview.
- The overwhelming sense of entitlement from our residents.
- The strength of the collective groups and their inward focus on their membership needs.
- There are two. The first are the roads in a snow event. Main secondary arteries were not even touched in several of the past snow events. For the amount of taxes paid, the expectation is much higher. The 2nd, quite honestly, is the pay issue that has went on for two years. While it has been finalized, or will be in two weeks, you have lost a lot of employees. There was no reason for this whatsoever, the games played, the length of time it took to get there, has "checked out" a lot of employees. If you want loyal, prideful and committed employees, then don't play games with their lives and livelihood.
- To keep the tax revenue coming into the city and keep quality employees.
- Too much growth too fast
- Transportation
- Underperforming police department

- Up keep of the infrastructure
- Upcoming PRI growth, what to do with vacant business fronts.
- Upholding high standards while also fulfilling the thought of providing for all. My thoughts may be off here....but I don't believe we can always provide just the right affordable housing for everyone. If I've done well, planned appropriately, saved as I should, I then can afford to live as comfortably as I wish. Not all will attain this and a community should not be brought down by others poor decisions.
- We hear all the time, not matter what the subject, "I pay taxes, why isn't X, Y or Z done?" I think educating or informing our citizens on what and how their taxpayer dollars are spent would go a long way.
- Wise use of remaining undeveloped land
- Young and inexperienced upper management (directors and assistant directors) that don't know how to relate to their employees.

Question 8: State one thing the City could do to better serve the community.

- accommodate middle class families
- Actively try to build social capital within the community.
- All departments operate under a principal of "One city, one team".
- Attract new restaurants, entertainment, and corporations.
- Balance the growth. A lot of single family residential growth which puts the biggest strain on the maintenance of the public infrastructure and the school systems.
- Be more transparent in CC as to why decisions are made and votes are cast.
- Be transparent in all ways.
- Better code enforcement.
- Better Communication - actual proactive information and PSA's to educate - not just fluff pieces.
- Better community engagement (proactive communications, proactive updates on projects, community engagement events, soliciting ideas more frequently.)
- Better roads
- Blinders on regarding individuals that need extra help.
- bring back recycling centers. Close the embarrassing landfill. it is out of control.
- Broaden the activities into the surrounding communities.
- Build a taller airplane hangar along with a new terminal to increase incentive for larger jets to come and stay out of the bad weather which will increase profits for the city, because right now most of the large jets divert to Downtown KC airport because we can't house them.
- Build less asphalt streets and more concrete.
- Challenges mostly snow removal!
- Charge less for stalls at the farmers' market. Offer city employees free membership at the community centers. This could improve health, reduce healthcare costs and reduce sick days. Maintain green space as you grow
- Clear the main streets after snow/ice. I understand about the side streets but Ward Rd and all the way down 3rd street is really bad too.
- communicate
- Communication
- Communication, both City employee to City employee and City official/employee to resident. Not just in frequency, but in consistency.

- community education on how the local govt operates and is funded - many residents don't seem to understand this
- connectivity with streets and paths, city is very disjointed feeling
- Continue to focus on the quality of living for the community.
- Continue to improve employee salaries and support of the employees.
- Continue to invest in your employees (training, moral, etc.). I think by doing this we will be able to better serve the community; this will improve on what we have and will further support and give the tools to improve on what we are currently doing. In my experience having some of the employees (that are willing) be trainers and teachers (peer coaches) for new employees or employees in need of development. I believe everyone has talents and abilities that can be valued, don't focus on the negatives; focus on what that employee does well, and allow them to utilize the skills that they are best at, while helping them develop the areas they may fall short in. People want to be valued, help them see their value and let them utilize their full potential. Now, that being said, not everyone is willing to take the extra step and take the opportunities that are given to them.
- Develop a comprehensive development plan that does not simply look at land and what would it would best be used for, but instead accounts for the level of city services required to meet that development and systematic additions to personnel and equipment needed to meet the needs of the new development.
- Develop high paying jobs closer to where they live.
- Develop or improve upon a communication plan that specifies how and when we will 1) communicate information out and 2) respond to social media, LSConnect, emails, etc. for all departments.
- Develop something unique to Lee's Summit that provides an identity and makes the City a place to visit for others.
- Do a better job of promoting all the good things that are done for the community by the City.
- During a snow event, provide a map that show what streets have been treated/plowed.
- Educate the residents on the various departmental responsibilities.
- Education
- Eliminate collective bargaining unit groups and encourage a singular team approach to serving our community.
- Eliminate the current city administration.
- Ensure affordable housing is available
- Establish and accurately measure key performance indicators for provided services.
- establish local transit system for local residents
- Find ways to be more nimble/flexible to meet demands for service and technological advancements; many of our processes are slow and outdated and don't allow us to react quickly to change.
- fire the city manager
- For all staff members to be on the same page for consistency purposes
- Get a new city administrator
- Get back to the basics of what a government is suppose to provide to its citizens (ie; good roads, good water / sewer systems, good schools, and good police and fire services).
- Have better public transportation
- Have the best trained employees. Police, Fire, EMS, City Management. Also focus on core services before pet projects.
- Help foster more affordable housing and renting

- Higher standards-don't let LS be known as a soft target for crime-as it stands, we are viewed as an easy mark
- Hire a Fire Chief and City administrator from outside this department
- Hire department heads that actually know the job they are being hired for instead of just being a yes man/woman or friend of the City Administrator.
- Hire more staff so that more programs and services can be provided
- Honestly strive to be the very best. This takes money, hard work, and a desire to find the very best leaders to move the city that direction.
- I believe the city falls short in our visual image compared to other high end cities. our medians look like crap, we have a dump abandoned property on the south side of I-470 for everyone coming into the city. We just need to spend more on a clean visual along with clean brand.
- I don't know
- I have little complaints in this area. I would like to see our green areas maintained or better kept. Areas for example would include SW Ward Road, NE Tudor Rd between Douglas and Ward.
- I think we could have more community events that involve the community
- Improve the overall streetscape.
- In my opinion the City needs to examine it's allocation of resources that serve the safety of our citizens, and to find a way to otherwise fund growth for public safety. Another issue is becoming more developer friendly in the overall process of growth and development.
- Increase the number of employees serving in all departments. This would allow all departments to better serve their community by meeting their mission statements.
- Innovation. Public Announcements.
- Invest in public safety. The town is growing to fast. Public safety cannot keep up with the call volume and lack of equipment/personnel
- Keep on encouraging good character and modeling it, promoting integrity
- keep working on the cities issue's with being understaffed in their workforce.
- Keeping and maintaining the best employees.
- Keeping up with employee skills
- Less progress, less new home building, expanding outward.
- less red tape on development projects, less micro management from the council
- Listen to each other.
- Listen,listen,listen. Be more pro active.
- Look for more expansion in the southern corridor. We have nothing down here as far as good restaurant options.
- make areas in the city more appealing by removing old buildings and make homeowners follow codes to clean up their property
- Make it walk friendly all year long. Clean sidewalks in the winter.
- Make sure we are doing all we can to get the best businesses in Lee's Summit so the city will continue to grow and have a good tax base.
- make sure we have new options for landfill and recycling
- More amenities for residents and others to spend money on in the City
- More efficient programs and services.
- More frequently conduct Citizen Surveys to measure performance on key services/programs that are based on the majority response and re-adjust those services/programs in multi-year priority based budgeting to meet those expectations as opposed to the expectations of a loud minority and short-term issues.

- more local events
- more parking in downtown LS.
- More public transportation
- Need to work one retaining the tenured employees.
- Not just react to potential problems but be proactive to prevent future problems!
- Not sure. Doing good as far as I can tell.
- Notifying them as to why we do what we do.
- Open another landfill/resource park.
- Operate more efficiently.
- Pay police and fire more so we get better candidates. With paragon star being built we will need more patrol officers.
- plow the streets
- Proactive Codes Administration
- Promote all we do well
- Promote businesses that sell entertainment that is not centered around the sale of alcohol and food.
- Prove to the community and employees that they stand behind them.
- Provide a management / leadership type of training.
- Provide financial dashboard on a more timely basis. Many people have expressed concern why this has not been updated in many years.
- Provide more Police and Fire resources
- Provide opportunities for citizens to engage with the city
- put their employees first, the ones who do the daily grind to make it happen
- Realize that it takes funding to achieve the things our citizens want. There's a heavy focus on development of land but services are being left behind. Tax incentives to bring in business creates a disparity in what we are able to provide to the citizens. There has to be investment by the businesses into the community.
- Rebuild the water system culture from the top rank down.
- Recognize the significant growth in the southwest region of the city. Provide better amenities in that area (dog park, walking trails, etc.)
- Revised snow plan
- Road maintenance
- See #7
- Steady improvement of the streets/roads throughout the city.
- Stop bickering among the elected officials and city staff.
- stop fighting with each other and look out for someone other than themselves
- Stop giving tax breaks to businesses wanting to come here. The TIFs should not include things the companies should be providing for themselves.
- Take care of the employees, the ones that are taking care of the citizens.
- The city council could get along better and quit arguing during open council meetings.
- The City needs to listen to its citizens and take feedback and use it. These surveys do no good if some of the hard ideas are not dug into and looked at more closely.
- Think long term and big picture instead of reacting NIMBY's who fear monger. Heed professional advice more and campaign donors.
- Treat the front line employees the same way upper management wants/expects to be treated.
- update outdated technologies and processes.

- We already do so much, Lea McKeighan, water park, great Police and Fire departments
- We need to continue working on accepting diversity of thought, religion, sexual orientation, economic class, and culture in our community. If we don't, we will become a static community, one that future generations will choose to pass over for more vibrant and active communities.
- Welcome and support commercial businesses to create local employment
- Work hard at keeping the Employees Trust and making sure that the pay for the rank and file keeps pace with the surrounding cities.

Question 9: What are 2-3 distinctive strengths or attributes for which you would like the City Government to be known 5-10 years in the future??

- (1) Best employee. (2) Hardworking (3) Most reliable.
- 1) Focus more on quality housing and commercial development, less on accepting any builder/developer plan just for the tax revenue. 2) Partnership with the school district to maintain good quality schools with leadership that reflect the community values, not pushing political agenda.
- 1) Stronger government. Elected officials should have more input and control over fiscal decisions currently directed by city manager. 2) Focus on external customers first (community), internal customers second (employees). We remain under compensated and overworked due to staffing issues in all departments in the city. Employees that feel respected generally perform better to our first priority's needs: the community. 3) Design and 'master plan' the city. Thoughtful zoning and development will allow us to achieve our stated goal of being a community where people come to live, work, and play.

Question 10: Are there any other thoughts or comments about the organization that you would like to share that would be helpful to this Strategic Plan project?

- Advise the City to spend less time and money on surveys/consulting firms/studies and more time treating others the way you want to be treated.
- Allow for new stand alone homes to be built in the community that are in the 200s.
- As the City grows as it will over the next few years, the city will have to add more employees and equipment. This should be discussed at length during these meetings.
- Better budgeting. Eliminate some items (unnecessary travel) to add funds to other programs.
- Bring in new businesses and entertainment, so they can pay their employees a livable wage.
- Change the city color from the pea green to something brighter!
- City needs to stop reacting to squeaky wheels and focus on providing services based on the needs of the majority of residents, not a few loud mouths
- Coming from working in other progressive communities in other parts of the country, as progressive as Lee's Summit thinks it is it's still very far behind. Also, better design standards for neighborhoods and commercial corridors to have a better look and feel.
- Don't fear new people or ideas, be open to those not like yourself
- Don't forget to build as strong foundation in the core of the city government to support the future growth.

- Downtown is a gathering space, but so are current neighborhoods. Thus revitalizing existing older hoods, especially for elderly residents, would be beneficial to elders. Parks are good for residents souls.
- Each citizen has their own factors that are important to them and each citizen speaks at different levels. This does not mean any one citizen is more or less important, right, or passionate. Each citizen, employee, and elected official has input that is valuable and should be considered but as a group we need to accept that simply put one persons ideals are not always the best for the community at large. A fear that is rooted in incomplete information is a poor tool to make a decision off of, although many people come to conclusions this way.
- Focus needs to improve on building an employee centric culture within the City organization
- Focus on entertainment areas other than downtown, affordable housing, widening of many two lane roads
- Focus on not only what is within our city, but how we move forward, the impacts on the surrounding communities.
- For at least 20 years, Lee's Summit has been playing catch-up in dealing with constant growth instead of being pro-active in the planning of said growth. Our public works, fire, and police departments are GROSSLY understaffed in both field and office personnel/administration. In a city of nearly 100,000 people and 65+ square miles, there shouldn't be only 18 full-time PW members and there shouldn't be only THREE personnel in the FD fire prevention office. There shouldn't be a minimum of TWO fire dispatchers for a department that runs nearly 11,000 calls per year and dispatches for NINE agencies while 911 calls are being dropped at an alarming rate (this alone is a HUGE lawsuit waiting to happen). This city has sat back and done nothing to prepare for growth by finding funding sources to hire more employees and now they're in a hole they will have a very hard time digging their way out of. There is a need for at least two more (really THREE more) fire stations and one to two more police sub-stations. Where will the financing come from for these multi-million dollar needs that have not been addressed?
- Have to think long term and big picture. Stay out of the weeds. Provide guidance and cut staff loose to execute those plans instead of political micro managing. Be willing to discuss ideas and options, evaluate options instead of becoming emotionally attached to a small idea. When a decision is made, move on.
- I feel I have already covered it in an umbrella fashion with my prior comments.
- I have been an employee and resident for over 20 years. I have continually seen the city diminish in how it treats employees, and cut services it provides to the citizens. I have little faith in the current city administrative staff or department leadership to provide the quality of services the citizens believe they are receiving. The city is not interested in finding the best and the brightest leaders as they may challenge the control and status quo of the current administration....instead the biggest yes men and puppets are hired or promoted to carry out miss guided agendas. If I was not so close to retirement I would be actively searching for other employment. I am now considering this though more than ever. Sad! Mr. Arbo and his posse need to be gone...
- I hope this actually changes instead of the usual crossing t and dotting I. Its time to actually do something good than just filling these surveys
- I think overall the City is a great place to work, I feel there is always room for improvement as with anything. The new mayor has been more proactive at hearing what the employees are saying and trying to come up with a plan to balance the needs of the employees while that of the citizens. It may look easy at times to those looking from the outside (employees) but those of you making the decisions have very tough jobs (you can't please everyone). I think continuing to include employees in the discussions on topics that we may be affected by is critical to keeping the moral

up. I think the majority of those that come to the City have come here for similar reasons: family time, flexibility, benefits, and overall a positive environment to work in.

- I think throughout the years the city has wasted money on hiring people to tell us what we need, what we are lacking and where they think we should go and how to get there.
- Include data driven information in your planning.
- Instead of planning the budget and then see if their si enough money for raises, how about making raises our #1 priority and then making the budget fit by making it leaner if needed.
- It feels as though we have concentrated on bringing business and population to the city. TIF's, a branding campaign, highway signs, ect. Those are all nice and I think it brings people and business in but once we have people here we need to be able to take care of them. When I moved here it was for the service and opportunities that the city could offer. We need to concentrate on the citizens.
- It is a pleasure to work for the City of Lee's Summit, and hopefully others feel as I do.
- It is my hope that our Mayor and City Council will look beyond decisions that may appear to create immediate political gain and think in broader, long-term ways. When you look at some of the "great accomplishments" of our community, such as the downtown revitalization, building quality municipal buildings, improving the airport, annexing land, you see a constant theme of "long term thinking" and allowing the smaller micro-decisions to remain with the professional staff and leadership.
- Just be honest about where we are and where we are heading. Take care of those who work so hard to make this a wonderful city to live.
- Keep an eye on the housing market in LS - we have a lot of apartment complexes which give options but trying to get a house in LS is super expensive
- Keep doing surveys and keep listening to us.
- Keep up to date on current technology. Broaden focus to continue the growth and attaching new, long lasting business.
- Look into something big that would bring in tourists that would generate revenue and make us known as a place to visit.
- Make sure employee rights are protected and everyone can make a livable wage according to the market every year
- No
- No.
- None come to mind!
- not at this time
- Not really.
- nothing else
- Our City continues to grow quickly. There is a lot of ongoing development. We must make sure we are prepared to support all of it.
- Our schools have one of the best special ed programs in the state but no housing, jobs or programs after graduation.
- Pay all city employees better.
- Plan for future connectivity to the metro area via bike routes, light rail etc to make Lee's Summit accessible for the public, businesses and conferences.
- Recruit and retain the best, keep managers who listen and achieve
- Reduce taxpayer exposure to the development community. Not all projects are worthy of financial support from City coffers. Provide greater interest in our rights of way damage from utility installation, including compaction and restoration.

- Sustainability is a challenge moving forward. We still no plan for the future of the Solid Waste. Trucks drive through neighborhoods 5 days a week compounding maintenance issues for our roadways.
- Thank you for asking the employees their thoughts. We have a perspective that will be helpful in our future success.
- That the city be mindful in looking at the growth of the community as to their info structures capability.
- The acquisition and retention of Police and Fire personnel is a critically misunderstood concept at City Hall. Today's Police and Fire personnel are highly trained professionals, often requiring nearly a year from hire date to completion of training through the Academy and OTJ training. The loss of veteran employees cannot simply be replaced when a new person is hired. The selection processes are lengthy, and the aforementioned training requirements are extensive. Vacancies often go truly unfilled (filled with a person capable of handling the duties without direct supervision) for many months and sometimes years. This problem is also felt when a veteran Dispatcher leaves - a position requiring extensive training and competency to fulfill. The City currently allots a set number of employees to each Department. Though this is standard among government agencies, it does not take into account the loss of seasoned personnel who cannot be readily replaced. Even if a new officer or firefighter is hired the day after a retirement/resignation, the time to get that person capable of actually performing their duties is typically between 6-10 months. However, the City considers the position filled as soon as the new person is hired. The citizens feel the effect of less personnel to respond to their calls while waiting the 6-10 months for the new hire to actually be ready to perform their duties. And that is the best case scenario of hiring the day after a vacancy. In reality it typically takes 2-3 months of advertising, background checks, and hiring processes to even select a new hire, let alone the 6-10 months of training to have them ready to perform. That is over one year without the service expected by the community. The effect is Police or Fire may only have "X" number of actual vacancies according to the City personnel allotment, but in reality they have "Y" vacancies until the new hires are fully trained and capable of actually providing their service. For example, Police may only have 6 actual vacancies, but if they have 12 people in some point of initial training (Academy, FTO, etc.) then the effect is 18 vacancies, not 6. This is actually felt by the community in the level of service they receive and is possible for them to receive. The City Staff needs to take a much more serious look at ensuring "actual" staffing needs, rather than simply looking at a total number of allotted personnel. Though personnel who resign can do so on short notice, the City can pre-plan the replacement of retirees much more accurately. Hiring, and training for their replacement should begin to take place prior to their retirement, to expedite the return to normal service levels and personnel numbers as quickly as possible once the veteran employee leaves. This would require a form of "emergency fund" particularly designed to ensure staffing levels outside of normal budgetary requirements for allotted personnel. Though this "emergency fund" would likely require several hundred thousand dollars each year, the improvement in city services though maintaining personnel numbers closer to the peak numbers advocated by the Chief/City Staff would be more than reasonable and responsible. City Staff should be very aware by now that each of these professions has seen a remarkable decrease in the candidate pool, and are suffering through enormous competitive battles with comparable agencies. The lower numbers of qualified applicants only exacerbates the problem of maintaining personnel numbers at levels that allow services to be provided at levels expected of by the community.
- The city manager should not be allowed to play the games he plays with employees. He seems to have too much power and does not relate well with the people who work for the city.

- The city will not achieve the level of greatness it desires and the city's residents deserve until the current administration is eliminated.
- The City's Boards and Commissions are supposed to be an opportunity for public participation but they end up coming across as deputized bureaucrats. Many of them lack direction and purpose but when that lack is recognized from above, the direction and purpose is also pushed from above. Volunteers participating in government should have the opportunity to drive their own bus. If they aren't doing that, it's because they are not receiving adequate support.
- The elected officials need to pay much more attention to core general employees.
- There have been significant strides to improve the pay for employees. There remains a disconnect of the administration and the workforce at large for what is important. It is often stated that the employees are the reason the city does so well, however it is often difficult and delayed for the employees to receive benefits that reflect those statements.
- The Mayor and Council need to get out of the weeds and hold Administration accountable for the bigger picture.
- The most important thing that can be done is to follow up with staff so that they feel like their thoughts and opinions matter.
- The strategic plan needs to consider relative success of the City depends on attracting and retaining a fully qualified and high performing workforce.
- The upper management needs to recognize the contributions of the longtime employees. It's great that they are willing to expand pay grades, but they are still screwing their non-represented employees. The disparity between fire and police dispatch is ridiculous. The Mayor said it would be taken care of. The HR representative and the city manager don't seem to care. Police dispatch does 3 times the work as fire, yet the same person with more seniority at police is making $10,000 less than a fire dispatcher. Fire dispatch got a bump in the contract of 2017 taking them more into their range than police. How is that fair? No one seems to want to do anything about it. Anita Dickey doesn't seem to understand the issues. Police dispatchers feel they aren't as valued as fire dispatchers. The mayor said it would be taken care of, as of this date, it hasn't been. A 12 year dispatcher at fire makes approximately $10,000 more a year than a police dispatcher. How is that fair? Nothing is being addressed about the police dispatchers pay.
- There are many areas of town recently bought from the Morman church that will be developed in forthcoming years. The Pryor/Scherer Road corridors need to be considered carefully for traffic flow and future schooling needs of residential areas to be built nearby.
- There is no reason for this effort if the end result is not supported by City Council, City Management, staff and the community. A Strategic Plan needs to be reviewed/updated annually and worked! Not just sat on a shelf like so many plans the city creates.
- This is an excellent first step. How this employee information is evaluated and addressed is another, and then of course, the information from the citizens. Using SMART objectives will be important to demonstrate progress towards the goals identified in these surveys. Being transparent and accountable is imperative to the long term success of this project.
- This relates to #9 as well. Look for the best options available that consider topics such as parking Lot Drainage, snow removal and a reduction of Weather Related Damage. Additional drains, French Drains and other specifications that extend the life of parking lots. With these specifications considered prior to the bidding process, all vendors are held to the same requirements, not the bare minimum, then the lowest bid doesn't equal the minimum quality.
- thoughts? yes. helpful? probably not. :)
- To remember to be an inclusive community.

- Water and wastewater programs are being neglected according to past department promises as to what our customers are paying for and the American Water Works Association best management practices due to Water Utilities management staff lack of hiring, training, retaining employees.
- We cannot keep hiring people who are the least qualified for department head positions. We MUST hire an HR director who truly cares about employee needs and can be trusted by the employees.
- We have to have a change in the way Administration deals with employees to assure we don't continue to lose knowledge and experience to other agencies.
- We need to find ways to bring the community together, and reach people outside of the normal participants. We can't be afraid to try new ways of reaching people and gaining their feedback.
- We need to work proactively to address employee concerns and questions to build trust with administration. As employees feel trusted and valued they will be more productive and the quality of their work will improve.
- Words put things into action so choose them wisely.
- Work to build a safe, prosperous community.
- Worry a little less about developing cultural amenities and a little more about developing good paying jobs.
- Would like to see some sort of Innovation Team
